Today

Elections and Issues.
Sheep That Bite.
Kossuth, Great Fighter.
Bolshevism, Aged 10.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927.)

MANY elections today, many issues, in Detroit, Philadelphia, San Francisco, New York, Kentucky, Ohio, etc. New York discusses having a governor for four years and electing him with the President. That would make the governor a tail to the national elections kite. Gov. Al Smith is against it, and it will undoubtedly be beaten in New York today, as the same idea was beaten recently in New Jersey.

KENTUCKY discusses the "Paris Mutuels," a French system of betting on race tracks. That cuts the profit of bookmakers. They don't like it.

In Detroit's mayoralty election, one candidate promises that Detroiters will not poison themselves with wood alcohol, because he will give them something better.

When the big election comes next year, the one big issue will be prohibition, and both parties will tiptoe softly around it.

PRIVATE detectives, hired by a defendant in the Sinclair-Fall oil case to trail jurors, investigating their finances, offer an interesting defense. They say the government was also trailing and "accosting jurors."

That reminds you of the man accused of stealing sheep who said, "I'll kill any sheep that bites me."

What, if anything, will our "democratic" government do to convince prosperity and its detectives that hiring men to corrupt juries is unsafe, even in the case of BIG thieves?

ASK one hundred Americans "Who was Kossuth?" and fifty will answer, "don't know; sounds like a foreigner."

Kossuth's statue, a beautiful work in marble, was unveiled in Budapest yesterday, and 100,000 Hungarians gathered to honor a really great man.

Kossuth was jailed in Hungary, and when the combined power of Russia and Hungary drove him out, after fighting to the last for the freedom of his country, he was jailed in Turkey. He survived all his fights, came to this country in the middle of the last century to thank the United States for having joined with England in obtaining his release from the Turkish prison.

In any heaven for men that believe in liberty and are willing to fight for it, Kossuth deserves a front seat.

THE Bolshevik government was ten years old yesterday.

In 1917 it was announced that Russia's government had been taken over by the workingman, and ever since Russia has been in the hands of a few intelligent men, using their judgment, telling the workingmen how to vote. That's how it is, always.

ONE hundred and forty-one years ago this country announced that hereafter it would be governed by "the people." Since then a few intelligent individuals have run the government, giving the public their choice of hand-picked candidates.

Power, which must go somewhere, goes to the strongest. It went once to the strongest physically. Now it goes to the strongest in cunning.

AT Calvary Baptist Church, New York, cripples profess that Dr. Straton, most fundamental, has cured them by faith, prayer and anointing with oil. One lady cured was partly paralyzed and rheumatic.

Dr. Straton was careful in each case to give proper credit, saying "It is the Lord and not I who makes you well." One fourteen-year-old child testified that her

MEHARD IS ACCUSED BY BANK

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 8.—Misuse of funds of the estate of the late Judge S. S. Mehard, once Mercer's foremost and millionaire resident, is charged against Churchill B. Mehard, of Pittsburgh, a son, by the Union National Bank of Pittsburgh, recently appointed to succeed Mehard as executor. The bank asks an accounting.

A petition was filed by the bank today through its trust officer, John M. Thompson, directed against Mehard, a brigadier general of the United States Army Reserve Corps; Mrs. Mary Frankel, executrix of the estate of her husband, Herman Frankel, of Mercer, and Mrs. Sadie Hosack, Pittsburgh, executrix of the estate of the late George Hosack.

The petition avers that in the opinion of bank, as executor, during the lifetime of Frankel and Hosack, who, with Mehard, were originally executors of Judge Mehard's estate, funds of the estate were turned over to the younger Mehard and that he has applied them to his own use.

Judge J. A. McLaughry set December 5 as the date for a return on the rule of citation.

The Union National Bank of Pittsburgh was named executor in September following action by Miss Tillie Harvey, one of the beneficiaries under Judge Mehard's will, who asked that Mehard be supplanted. She charged she was receiving no income from a trust fund created in her behalf and that under Mehard's management the estate was being dissipated.

VOTE QUIET; CAVANAUGH WATCHES FOR FRAUD

Storm Keeps Balloting Down—Complaint Leads to Guard Rails Being Ordered.

A quiet election today climaxed one of the most vicious political campaigns in the history of the county.

Bad weather, which promised to continue until the polls close at 7 o'clock this evening, was expected to reduce the vote below the record total cast in the primary election.

Few complaints about the conduct of the election reached either the courts or the office of the County Commissioners. At the latter place it was said that officials of the Allegheny County Elections Association had complained that guard rails had not been erected in several polling places and that orders have been is-

THIRTEENTH IN PARTY SPIES

The Prohibition Department announced today that it would seek to revoke the license of Iron City plant of Pittsburgh Brewing Company, 3340 Penn avenue, whose vice president, E. J. Vilsack, was arrested yesterday in a raid which netted a juicy assortment of wines, beer and whisky.

Vilsack was one of a party of 12, the department revealed, when the thirteenth "guest"—a prohibition agent—rushed into the room and feasted his eyes upon 20 gallons of beer, 30 pints and four gallons of whisky and a choice layout of wines and champagne.

A feast which included such delicacies as pheasant was forgotten by the dozen men at the party when the raiders entered. After interrupting the party the agents seized Vilsack's automobile, in which they reported finding two gallons of real beer. Ten gallons, they said, were in a refrigerator and one gallon was on a table when they entered.

The Iron City plant is the largest in the city and holds a permit for the manufacture of near-beer. The inspectors who conducted the raid were accompanied by the auditor of the state's alcohol board acting under instructions of Maj. Rupert M. Ewing, deputy attorney general of the State Department of Justice.

Prohibition officers last night raided three downtown clubs and a cafe and reported seizing a large assortment of wines and liquors and many slot machines.

The places raided included the Penn Republican Club, 939 William Penn way, where Charles Bulger, 35, of Thirty-seventh street, was arrested; Nimrod Hunting and Fishing Club, 113 Seventh street, where Joseph Jennings, of 1627 Rankin avenue, was arrested; Metropolitan Club, 139 Seventh street, where John A. King, 37, was arrested, and the Tenth Street Cafe, 134 Tenth street.

KING RETURNS, FEDERAL OFFICERS HUNTING HIM

Vice Crusader Who Quit is Sought Here by Department of Justice Men.

Department of Justice agents today were scouring the city for William L. King, late executive secretary of the Citizens League.

They had, as a present for him, a government subpena to assure his presence when Jakie Klein is called to trial next month to answer charges of conspiracy filed by King after his first disappearance in June.

The early serving of the subpena was regarded as an outcome of King's disappearing activities. The government, it was pointed out, would be in a sorry plight if Klein were called to trial and King had disappeared for the third time.

July 1, 1927—King returned, charging he had been kidnaped by Jakie Klein, and named Police Supt. Walsh as one of the conspirators.

July 2, 1927—King filed conspiracy charges against Klein and Walsh.

Kidnaped Woman Slain

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Kidnaped last night after her husband had been slugged and thrown into a ditch, Mrs. Emma Greenwald, of Mt. Horeb, Wis., was found slain near Dousman, Wis., today. The husband was thrown from their automobile and is in a hospital here.

The attack took place three miles east of Waukesha last night as the couple were returning to Mt. Horeb after a visit to Milwaukee. They were halted by a large car. Greenwald was struck over the head and knocked unconscious and left lying in a marsh. Several hours later he staggered to the roadhouse of Frank Tasi and was taken to the Waukesha Hospital.

Whereabouts of Mrs. Greenwald was unknown until the body was found today on a highway four miles from Dousman.

KANE HINTS PEACE

"Well, I never was one to stir up much trouble!"

That's the attitude of William J. Kane, for 20 years and nine months a Pittsburgh police officer, who, late yesterday, was named executive-director of the Citizens League of Pittsburgh to succeed William L. King, resigned.

Awaiting official notification of his appointment, Mr. Kane confined his statement to that one portentous sentence which indicated that the flamboyant, fiery and vicious attacks against the police department, which featured King's activities as director, are buried with other incidents in his tempestuous career.

The red-faced, clean-shaven and portly gentleman who now directs the destiny of the league, is in marked physical contrast to King, he of the raven-colored musician's locks. Kane likewise has a protruding jaw against the somewhat receding chin of his predecessor.

The new director entered the Pittsburgh police department as a substitute patrolman on April 3, 1900, but resigned in July, 1902, to become reinstated six years later on June 3, 1908. February 18, 1914, under the administration of the then Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong (now County Commissioner) he was appointed a district commissioner, a designation later changed to inspector.

Kane, Ex-Police Commissioner, Appointed to King's Place as Vice Detective.

The return of William L. King, director of the Citizens League, from his unexplained absence of six weeks, the acceptance of his resignation as the league's executive secretary and the appointment of William J. Kane, former police inspector in his place, featured the meeting of the executive board of the league which was held yesterday afternoon in the North Side Community House, Union avenue, North Side.

5 Mothers Cheer Baby

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Giggle, gurgle goo-oo-ooh!

That's not so much in cold print. But you ought to hear how Jackie Hugh says it.

Jackie Hugh, for your own enlightenment, is the luckiest little foundling in the world. He has five mammas. Pretty, young, sparkling, gay mammas that laugh with him, love him almost to pieces at his new home, the Home Management House at Seton Hill College, Greensburg.

It all came about like this:

Jackie has been adopted for six months by the students to "practice on." He was brought from Rosalia Foundling Home, Pittsburgh, on All Saints Day. They wanted a baby so they could learn exactly how to care for their own some day, and a kiddie seemed to fit right into the practice house picture. So they ordered a "healthy boy baby with big blue eyes."

The blue eyes look as if they were made to order. They are the biggest, bluest, laughingest eyes that ever warmed a woman's heart. It seems almost impossible when you see Jackie in his comfy home at Seton Hill that he isn't the proud possessor of a lovely understanding mamma and a proud papa and just visiting the girls for the day. That his future is not that sort brings a lump to

King Brands Charges of Girl Stenographer Dream

Girl Held In Vote Fraud

Three women, two alleged to be under age; a youth and a man waived hearings for court yesterday on charges of perjury in connection with alleged fraudulent registration at the primary election. The charges were filed by Leo Riordain, an investigator of alleged election frauds in the First Ward. Informations were made Saturday before Alderman M. A. Maloney, who set bail in each case at $1,000.

Those held are Blanch Wilcox, 62 Pride street; Mrs. Lauretta Rogers and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Manfredo of 1810 Forbes street; Joseph Malerba, 913 Lamond street, and Carmen Bevilacqua of 1822 Poplar alley. Bevilacqua was charged with subornation and perjury and the others with perjury.

According to Riordain, Miss Wilcox gave her age as 21 and voted at the primaries, but investigation at the Bureau of Vital Statistics, it is alleged, revealed her correct age as 18. In the case of Mrs. Rogers, it is alleged, she also voted, but she is said to be only 20. Her mother is alleged to have sworn to her daughter's majority before the Board of Registration Commissioners.

Malerba is said to be only 18. According to Riordain, a certain John Montez was registered from 1810 Forbes street, and when he was called before the registration commissioners, Malerba is alleged to have appeared and swore he was Montez. There is no such person as Montez, it is said, and Bevilacqua is charged with having induced Malerba to perjure himself.

Additional informations will be filed against others in the First Ward, Alderman Maloney said, following today's election.

TELLS OF TRAILING HER TO POLICE TRYST

The affidavit of Miss Ruth Parnot of Kansas City, former employe of the Citizens' League, which was made public two weeks ago by Director James M. Clark of the Public Safety Department and Superintendent Peter P. Walsh of the Bureau of Police, was branded as the hallucinations of a mentally deranged woman last night by William L. King, resigned director of the league.

Mr. King told of trailing the woman for several hours the night she left Pittsburgh after being dismissed by the league, and of witnessing a conversation between her and two police officers in a restaurant near the West End Police Station. He said that he is able to call at any time a man who witnessed this conversation and who heard what was said by the parties in the conversation.

TOOK HER TO LUNCH

Mr. King admitted that he had taken Miss Parnot to lunch several times and in return he had been invited to her house for dinner, after which the two went to an organ recital in Carnegie Music Hall. Prior to coming to Pittsburgh, Miss Parnot had been ill and a mental upset followed when she came to this city, Mr. King said.

The Parnot affair, as the former league head sees it, is as follows:

"In Kansas City, where I worked for the Anti-Saloon League, the Parnot woman was employed in an adjoining office, and I had always heard that she was a very capable woman, but had never known her personally. The day I was leaving for Pittsburgh she came to my office and asked that I look out for an opening for her, as she and her mother, whom she supported, were desirous of coming East.

"After I had been here a short time I discovered I would need an assistant, and decided to offer her the position. When I was ready to write to her I could not even remember her name and had to address her care of my former stenographer. When she arrived here I was very much disappointed. She was in ill health and could not walk more than a block without becoming tired and nervous. I drove her around in a taxicab the first day, looking for a place where she might secure rooms. It was hard work because she could not live on the second floor, where there were steps to climb. Finally she found quarters in Denniston avenue.

"My second disappointment came when I found she was not such a capable woman as I had supposed. I did not feel like mentioning it to the members of the board, however, as I thought I was responsible for her coming here, and I knew she needed the money. One day Miss Eleanor Hanson, a member of the board, noticed her working and asked me if I was satisfied with her work. I replied that I was not.

"I was finally forced to ask her to change her style of work, and after that she grew very despondent. She began believing that persons were opening her mail and rifling her baggage and that people were talking about her on the street. She cried many times in the office and continually was telling her troubles to others in the office. I mentioned that she had better return to her mother and she became hysterical, and I was forced to ask for her resignation.

"She told me she did not have to work at all, as she had good friends who were policemen and who would care for her and that she would go to them. Fearing that this would happen and that she would hurt the league by such stories as she would tell, I suggested that Dr. Crues talk to her. He appealed to her as a friend and suggested that if she were unhappy she could live with Crueas for a few days before going home. She refused and insulted Dr. Crues in the presence of his young son.

TALKED TO POLICEMEN

"A few days later her landlady called me and told me that Miss Parnet was leaving and I went to the house in time to see her leave. I followed her and she went downtown, then to the West End Police Station, where she talked with two police officers for a few minutes. Then she went to a small restaurant and talked to several other officers for about two hours. She then returned to town and to the railroad station and boarded a train for Kansas City."

Snipe at Oil Jury Charge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—The prosecution advanced into a volley of counter-fire today in its efforts to convince a Federal grand jury that the defense in the Fall-Sinclair oil case was guilty of jury tampering.

With vigorous protestations of complete rectitude from William J. Burns, founder of the Burns detective agency, and Henry Mason Day, associate of Harry F. Sinclair temporarily taking the play away from them, government attorneys turned to new witnesses to prove its case, notably Sheldon Clark, of Chicago, another Sinclair official. The prosecution contends Day and Clark were "contact men" between Burns agents and Sinclair.

Day was on record today, with Burns, as professing their complete innocence of any unethical conduct in having jurors shadowed, and in the effing Edward J. Kidwell, juror No. 11, to whom the government attributes indiscreet talk, awaited a response to demands that he be allowed to clear himself in court.

Mrs. McGarrity took her troubles to the County Commissioners, who advised her to "go back and sit." She took the advice, but left Mrs. Mary Goedert to call attention of the court to the board's action.

Judge James B. Drew and H. H. BIG BUSINESS FORECAST FOR G. M. TRUCKS

General Motors truck dealers in this section are looking ahead to their most successful season, according to predictions voiced at their meeting here last night. Representing 50 different organizations scattered through Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia and parts of Ohio and Maryland, they pledged to V. G. Phillips, general sales manager, and W. M. Kelley, branch manager, a volume of business which exceeded expectations.

Prior to the meeting the dealers made a thorough inspection of the new $40,000 branch which the company opened yesterday in Liberty avenue, between Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth streets.

"The unusually fine business which you dealers have been enjoying will continue indefinitely, unless there is a decided change in business conditions generally," said Mr. Phillips. "It is difficult for us to keep pace with the demand, and a careful analysis of conditions suggests that you can look for this prosperity to continue without interruption."

Mr. Kelley will maintain open house throughout the week and has special events planned for each day and evening. Tonight there will be an organization dinner and meeting, at which the entire branch personnel is expected.

Says Football Here No Parlor Game

American football is no bally, bloomin' parlor game!

That is the opinion of Magistrate W. E. Hincks, of Leicester, England, who visited Judge A. D. Brandon at Morals Court this morning, and discussed the game along with other things.

"I was very much impressed with the vigor of your game when I saw Western Reserve of Cleveland playing a few days ago," said his honor. "You see we don't have substitute players in England, and it was difficult for me to understand at first. When we play and a man gets knocked out they don't put another man in, but go right on playing with 10."

And they have no cheering either. A highbrow orchestra plays opera and soulful melodies to inspire the players and the crowds. It was a revelation to Judge Brandon, who had a hearty laugh.

Magistrate Hincks is making a tour of the states, studying social conditions. He is much impressed with health statistics and finds plenty to admire, but is not keenly impressed with prohibition. Hearing Judge Brandon handling several cases, he declared:

"We would not have so many drunk cases coming up in our courts. You wouldn't see that many in London." He turned to Judge Brandon. "I like the way you handle these things. Your judgment is excellent. That idea of giving first offenders a lecture and another chance is human and fair."

Magistrate Hinks' court is similar to Judge Brandon's Morals Court except that the English court also handles traffic cases. They have no regular traffic courts.

EX-GOV. ROSS SLAPS DRY SQUAD

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 8.—Speaking in the Elks' Auditorium on the eve of election day, Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, rapped the Federal enforcement of the Canadian border liquor traffic, assailed the practices of the minority group of politicians and came to the defense of politicians generally.

She stressed the difficulties of governors in enforcing the eighteenth amendment, challenging that the United States government must successfully cope with the situation first. She said the evils of government may be attributed to the indifference of our people who don't want to be bothered urging a vindication of democracy in the uplift of citizenship.

Mrs. Ross' appearance was sponsored by the Erie Teachers' Association and the University Club.

FALL REPORTED IMPROVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Improvement in the condition of Albert B. Fall was aided by a restful night, his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chase, said today.

"He slept from 8 o'clock this morning until very late," said Mrs. Chase. "I believe he is really on the mend now."

The former Interior Secretary, who has been confined to his bed with congestion of the lungs since Friday, spent the early part of last night reading the newspapers for the first time in some days.

Mrs. Chase said today that during the Fall-Sinclair trial "I never saw my father so feeble in all his life."

After each day in court, she declared, he returned to his hotel exhausted.

The conference will close Thursday night.

INJUNCTION TIES HANDS OF SYKESVILLE MINERS

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Nov. 8.—Sixty persons, including James Mark, president of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, were served Monday with notice of temporary injunction prohibiting virtually every union activity at the Cascade mine at Sykesville, near here. The injunction is returnable November 19.

Won't Drink His Own Liquor; Fined

North Side police raided O. W. Blakeley's saloon at 612 East Diamond street last night and found moonshine.

"What do you do with that stuff?" Magistrate E. M. Hough asked the prisoner when he was arraigned this morning.

"Well, I don't drink it," was Blakeley's reply.

"Fine—$100 or 30 days in jail for not drinking it," the Magistrate retorted.

MAGRUDER GETS PAY, NO WORK

By WILLIAM P. PLATHE,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Rear Admiral Thomas S. Magruder has been severely disciplined for his now celebrated articles criticizing the administration of the Navy.

After a lengthy conference with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur that official placed him in the status of "awaiting orders."

In brief, this means that the Navy will no longer require his services as commander of a ship, yard, or even at a desk in the Navy Department.

And, in almost as brief and picturesque style, Admiral Magruder struck his flag. From the office of Secretary Wilbur he walked to the office of the chief of operations, where all officers are required to register, and wrote behind his name "unknown."

This discipline is almost unprecedented for an officer of Magruder's rank and station. He is to receive his pay, but will have no duties except to report regularly to the Secretary of the Navy. There are three forms of "awaiting orders" and in this respect, at least, he received the lightest form. One is to report home for orders. He would then be prohibited from leaving his home town without obtaining permission from the department. Another is to remain in Washington. His punishment merely confines him to the United States.

Throughout the Navy, however, it was generally conceded that he will "await orders" until he reaches the retirement age, and that so far as this administration is concerned he is not to pace his own quarter deck again or see his two-starred flag floating from a ship under his command.

His offense has never been quite clearly defined by the Navy general board. He wrote an article in a current weekly in which he declared that the Navy is overorganized and possesses too many officers. He also declared that the costs for work in navy yards (he was until last Saturday commandant of the Philadelphia yard) are excessive for the work produced.

Magruder had hoped, and it was even intimated at the department, that he would be given a desk there and the opportunity of working out a plan of reorganization. Even this was denied him.

SLUGS SLUGGER, HE'S ARRESTED

Accused of having attacked a man he said he found using slugs in a slot machine in his saloon at 2026 Beaver avenue, North Side, Joseph Turkovich, 39, was held over at a hearing this morning before Magistrate E. M. Hough in the North Side Police Station on charges of keeping a gambling device.

Michael Stanovich, 35, of Page street, complained to police that Turkovich had slugged him, and he was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. He had a cut on his head and was released on a $10 forfeit after receiving medical treatment at St. John's Hospital.

Police raided Turkovich's place and say they found a 25-cent slot machine.

Will Exposes Big 'Steal' on Indian Oil Royalties

AGUANA, N. Mex., Nov. 8.—They struck oil on the Navajoes over three years ago. I foolishly asked: "How often do they get their payments for their oil royalty?" Well, they hadn't any yet. They took a million of it to build a bridge across the Little Colorado River so tourists wouldn't have to drive so far around to see the Grand Canyon. The Navajoes paid for the bridge and there has never been a Navajo crossed it yet.

WILL ROGERS

If the Indians' oil royalties hold out they will have enough to build the Boulder Dam for the whites.

I suppose I will be recalled for telling this, like Magruder and Summerall.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Bomb Wrecks $1,600,000 Indiana Movie Theater

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 8.—(INS.)—State Theater, a $1,600,000 structure, was wrecked by a gigantic bomb early today. Great gaping holes were blown in the walls, causing damage estimated at from $800,000 to $900,000. The origin of the blast is unknown.

Owners of the theater declared they have had no labor trouble. As far as could be learned there was no loss of life.

The theater is owned by David Posner and Samuel Schlesinger and leased by William Kielhege. None of those men could suggest any motive for the disastrous explosion.

"The theater is completely unionized," said Kielhege. "We have had no threats, have not failed to join unions and associations within our craft and, so far as we know, have made no enemies."

The blast was set off inside, near the State street wall, according to the evidence of destruction. A hole 20 feet wide was blown in the State street wall; holes were blown in the roof and all the walls bulged. It will be necessary, it was said, to rebuild the entire theater.

All police in the district are on the alert for clues that may lead to the identity of the perpetrators. Those first on the scene declared there was a strong odor of gun powder.

All Hammond felt the shock of the terrific explosion. Windows within several blocks of the theater were shattered. All Saints Church, adjoining the theater, was rocked to its foundation, all of its many expensive windows being broken.

The stage of the theater was a mass of twisted steel and debris, indicating the center of the blast was near that part of the building. Tons of masonry, steel girders and bricks crashed from the ceiling to the floor of the house.

The theater was one of the largest and most elaborate in Indiana.

FIVE "MOTHERS" BRIGHTEN BABY JACKIE'S LIFE

BABY ADOPTED BY STUDENTS

your throat, he is so cuddly and lovable. Seven months old, bless his heart.

The Management House is a splendid practical idea.

It is composed of six adults—five students and Pauline Sanders, director of home economics, who oversees their work. The students operate the house from top to bottom on $150 per month. This includes the support of the entire household, even the baby. Therefore, some day when they marry they will know how to comfortably care for a family of four children if their husbands are only earning a salary of $1,800 a year.

When this amount is budgeted among the ordinary household expenses it means that the new family has only $17.50 a week to spend on food. For several weeks they have lived excellently on 40 cents a day.

Of course, it means denying themselves of some of the luxuries to which they have been accustomed, but it is training they can never get from books.

It is not permissable for the girls to spend any money on their outside entertainment during this time. For six months they must live the simple life of an industrious, middle-class large family.

The household duties are apportioned between a manager of meals, an assistant manager of meals, house manager, mother and assistant mother. This schedule is arranged so that the students can attend their courses. These are not in excess of 14 hours weekly and leaves one student always at home to mamma the baby. They do their own marketing at local stores.

Last week Jackie's mother was petite Marjorie O'Donnell, McAdoo, Pa., and his assistant mamma was Helen Rice, of 258 Fairgreen avenue, Youngstown, O. Next week Helen will be his mamma and another girl, with less experience, will be made her assistant. The other three students in the management house are Madaline Kelly, 3427 Terrace street, Pittsburgh; Ursala Murphy, 5557 Phillips avenue, Pittsburgh, and Mary Sherer, 2210 Bellaire street, Denver, Col. Five other girls will be put in charge the next semester.

The duties of Jackie's weekly mamma are not light. She must bathe and feed him, prepare his formula, do his washing, care for him at night, keep a record of his physical and mental development and keep an expense book to determine just how much an infant costs daily.

His assistant mamma helps with his general care and with the cleaning and cooking, but not very much. Her week as assistant is spent mostly in learning how to be a competent mother the week she takes over the job of his well being.

Let no one think that the Seton Hill Collegians are in danger of starvation on their menu of 40 cents daily. Here is a fair sample of the daily diet!

Breakfast, stewed prunes, waffles, sirup and coffee. Lunch, stuffed peppers, bread and jelly cake and tea. Dinner, baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, lima beans, coleslaw, brown betty, hard sauce and coffee.

And, pardon! We almost forgot what the girls consider the most exciting part of the story. Jackie gained a half pound last week—his first week with them! Despite the fact that he arrived with a severe cold and "sneezing too sweet for words."

W. VA. WOMAN, 103, DIES

GRAFTON, W. Va., Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Sallie Anne Croston, 103, died at the home of her grandson in Webster, near here, Saturday night. Up until the time of her death, her mind was unusually keen and she recalled events in the early '30s when she resided in this section of Virginia. She was ill only a few days.

This case is critical. These colds are always dangerous and should never be neglected.

"muscle-bound feet had been made well." Dr. Straton said, "Ye shall be whole," and comforted a weeping fifteen-year-old girl, telling her that unable to walk now, her swollen knees would surely be cured. All this is interesting, in the cold Twentieth Century.

EXCAVATIONS at Glozel, near Vichy, in France, prove that human beings possessed an alphabet ten thousand years ago. A stone of the neolithic age is found with a deer and letters of the Glozel alphabet engraved on it. You would say offhand that men would need thousands of centuries to work their way from caves and platforms over lakes up to even primitive writing. But men now living have seen the change from stage coach to locomotive, the automobile, flying machine and submarine. Things happen quickly, once they start.

ON Sunday, with a marvelous sunset for a background, a tiny plane with a fearful roar shot along the horizon with meteor-like speed. That was Lieut. Williams of our Navy breaking the world's record, going 322.6 miles an hour. The wind helped him a little, as it did the Italian Bernardi, who set the now eclipsed record recently.

IN the old days when men were the only "repeaters" in elections, it was easy to register them from some miserable lodging house in the slums and bring them out to do their repeating on election day.

But New York's women "floaters" or "repeaters" demand something more "classy." They are registered from night clubs and beauty parlors, according to the District Attorney.

By Universal Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Four hundred and seventy-five thousand men and women will go to the polls here today to choose a new mayor, a new City Council and a new set of magistrates.

A vote which will constitute a heavy balance of power will decide the mayoralty issue between Harry A. Mackey, U. O. P. nominee, and J. Hampton Moore, Independent Republican. To win, either Mackey or Moore will have to receive more than 200,025 votes, with allowances made for a scattering balloting for Thomas A. Logue, Democrat, and Joseph S. McLoughlin, Washington party.

Republican organization leaders are confident of victory. Moore is equally confident.

District Attorney Fox declared he will use every means at his disposal to insure a fair election and honest count tomorrow.

NEW YORK "OFF"

By LOUIS J. LANG,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Facing a loss of nearly 80,000 in the registration in Greater New York and more than that in proportion upstate, Democratic and Republican leaders spent yesterday arranging to bring to the polls today the largest possible vote for an off year.

Of the 1,255,059 New York City voters who placed their names on the rolls, it is estimated that a few more than a million actually will cast their ballots.

Political experts agree that these events are probable at today's election:

That almost the entire Democratic Supreme, City, County and Municipal Court tickets in Greater New York will win.

That the next state assembly will be close, whereas today there is a Republican majority of 18.

That Republicans will be lucky to retain five of the 62 seats from the metropolitan district.

That there may be five instead of only three Republicans in the new Board of Aldermen, which has a total roll of 65.

That all proposed amendments to the Constitution, except No. 6, making state elections simultaneous with presidential elections, will be adopted.

That the housing reform proposition will be approved by a tremendous majority.

WATCH DOG OF POLLS

tion's Association showed took place in the recent primary.

The "Watchdog of the Polls" gave organization leaders a jolt yesterday when his appointment was announced. That he is well equipped to get to the bottom of vile political methods, machine henchmen realize only too well. His watchers are not at the polls to saturate themselves with cheap booze today—they are on the job with their eyes open and no "mistakes" will be accepted as excuses for a bundle of votes being passed along to "one of the gang."

Cavanaugh has been in Pittsburgh for several days laying his plans for today's activities. Conferences have been held frequently with men anxious to clean up politics, but his actual connections were not revealed until last night.

For 29 years Cavanaugh served the Pittsburgh Police Department fearlessly. He resigned as inspector following the refusal of his superiors to allow him to clean up his district and following this he gained considerable fame as assistant prohibition administrator during Frederick C. Baird's regime here. Later on he made a still more enviable reputation as administrator of the eastern district.

Only 47 ballots in the seized ballot box of the Twenty-second District of the Eighth Ward showed no erasures, according to a report of the court's special board filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday. There were 250 ballots cast.

The polling place for the Seventh District of the Second Ward was changed from 1707 Arcena street, to 1638 Penn avenue by an order handed down in Quarter Sessions Court by Judge Richard W. Martin yesterday.

STORM KEEPS VOTE DOWN

sued to correct the matter immediately.

The fight today is for three places on the board of county commissioners, the principal battle being waged for the minority post now held by Commissioner James Houlahen, Democrat, now under fire of two men who bolted the Republican ticket to form the Independent party, these men being Charles C. McGovern, now county controller, and George B. Shields, now a justice of the peace of Wilkinsburg, who came into the limelight here by handling the cases brought by William L. King, the stormy petrel of the Citizens' League.

Against the three are aligned two Labor party candidates, who have no more chance of election than Lindbergh has of swimming the English Channel, and two Republicans—Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, seeking re-election with the odds in their favor.

Four ward battles in Pittsburgh complicate the situation. In the First Ward, Alderman A. M. Maloney, defeated at the primary, is running on the Democratic ticket against Thomas I. Flanigan, Republican. In the Second Ward, "Ownie" McManus, who won the Republican nomination for constable, is being opposed by an unknown named Frank J. Wolowski, who is the candidate of the Independent party which is backing McGovern and Shields. This fight, in a Republican stronghold, would be a cinch if it were not for the fact that County Road Director E. M. Kenna, who lead an unsuccessful battle against the Republican organization in the primary in four wards, together with Alderman George Anderson and Police Magistrate John J. Verona, of the Third, are supporting the Independent slate in the Second as far as the constable fight is concerned.

FORMER POLICE COMMISSIONER

why I should return to Pittsburgh immediately, as I had been given a leave of absence," he said.

"I knew the status of every case the league had and I knew that there was no immediate necessity for my return, he told reporters.

"When I found that I would have to overstay my leave to care for certain matters, I stayed away until I had concluded the matters I was engaged in.

The meeting of the board yesterday had been scheduled to be held in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Building but a telegram was received by the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, from Mr. King, asking that the meeting place be changed. Mr. King slipped quietly into the meeting on the North Side just as quietly as he had left the city early in October. His resignation was accepted and through arrangements made in advance the name of Mr. Kane was put up as the successor. He was immediately accepted.

Mr. King said that during his absence he had visited Mrs. King and had been with her in San Francisco. He said that he had left her in Des Moines, but did not state whether all was satisfactory between them. He also said that during his absence he had "looked about" for another position, but refused to say whether he had secured one.

A short time after he had arrived in Pittsburgh Mr. King was subpenaed for the trial of Jakie Klein, alleged gambler, who is charged by the government with bribing a Federal witness in connection with King's first strange disappearance, when he is alleged to have been blackmailed out of town. The trial is to be held during the second week of December.

A short time after the league had accepted Mr. King's resignation and had announced that they had accepted Mr. Kane as the new leader, Dr. Orr gave out a statement in which the league expressed its appreciation of Mr. King's services.

The statement reads:

"We record our appreciation for the splendid service rendered by Mr. King in the organization and launching of the league and we reiterate our confidence in his integrity and character."

Members of Sun-Tele Club Earning Money

Before next Saturday, when the boys and girls of the Sun-Tele Bird House Club gather at the Penn Theater for their second show, many of them will have cinched their plans for making Christmas money.

They will see Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl." At the same time they'll know that their's is the chance to make enough money this year to buy the family and Dad and Mother a good Christmas gift.

For the young members of the Sun-Tele Club have taken up the idea of salesmanship, and are getting subscriptions to the Sun-Telegraph—selling subscriptions to those who haven't already signed up for Pittsburgh's new and already leading newspaper.

Virtually every member of the club has blanks for selling subscriptions. For every order the circulation manager of the Sun-Tele receives, the Bird House salesman gets 50 cents. Many of the more enterprising have already coined enough—and they have been at it but a few days—to buy mother's gift.

Of course, the boys and girls don't collect the money themselves. The customer subscribes and pays the carrier. But the salesman's name is on the blank as well as his address.

Several of the boys have already run out of blanks, and on requesting more from J. M. Aylward, manager of the Sun-Telegraph Bird House Club, have secured as many additional as they need. Any of the boys or girls who run out of the blanks should let Mr. Aylward know and he will supply them.

The boys and girls will see Mary Pickford's newest motion picture starting at a quarter to 9 next Saturday morning in the Penn Theater, Sixth and Penn avenues. The doors open at 8 o'clock, and the rule is "first come, first served." Admission is by membership card only.

Try This Before Making Engine Repairs

CHECK the ignition and look the spark plugs over whenever the engine falls short of the fine performance that it once had.

Many times expensive repair bills are incurred when all that was needed was a new set of spark plugs. All spark plugs in time deteriorate, and need to be replaced.

When you buy spark plugs, be sure to insist on AC—the make on which Lindbergh, Byrd and other great flyers staked their lives. You, too, can have the same spark plugs.

WRONG TO JOKE ABOUT YOUR HEALTH!

Don't let friends "kid" you when they say, "You're looking fine". Because you know how often you feel weak, nervous, headachy, stomach not so good, and other spells. Some of these slight attacks may be symptoms of System Poisoning—professionally called TOXEMIA. Ordinary laxative pills and waters do not eliminate the poisonous wastes that bring on TOXEMIA. Far better to get a box of PARTOLA, the internal antiseptic and laxative. Take two of these mint-flavored wafers at night, clean out the poisons, then your friends can truly say "you're looking fine". All good druggists sell regular box of PARTOLA 50¢, double size 50¢.

$1,000,000 FOR POSTOFFICE TO BE ASKED

An appropriation of $1,000,000 to begin construction on a new $5,000,000 postoffice for Pittsburgh on the site recently purchased near the Pennsylvania Railroad Station will be requested from Congress at the coming session, according to word received by James Francis Burke, general counsel to the Chamber of Commerce here, from Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury. The letter also advises Mr. Burke that Secretary Mellon is empowered to sell the old building on Smithfield street, which was recently evaluated at $2,500,000.

The plan for the new building contemplates the housing therein of all federal departments here, including those which now rent quarters because of the lack of space in the present building.

NAB JUVENILE ESCAPER

After slipping out of the clutches of the law twice in two days, William Beatty, 15, 172 Eden way, was captured late yesterday in Fortieth street after Detective Frank Malone had fired a shot into the air. The youth's pal, Dominic Nar, 15, of 147 Ammon way, escaped. Both are accused of robbing stores in the strip.

The boys escaped Sunday from Juvenile Court officers while being taken, along with others of the court detention rooms, to church services. Nabbed again yesterday by Detective Malone, who had arrested them originally, the boys leaped from the sleuth's car and fled when he alighted to examine a puncture.

RADIO IS BETTER WITH BATTERY POWER

Radio is no better than the "B" current

THE quality of your radio reception depends on the source of your "B" power. With batteries, radio is at its best. But, there is a great difference in batteries. The big Eveready Layerbilt No. 486 will outlast any other Eveready Battery—and Evereadys are noted for their smooth, steady, silent power and long-lasting qualities.

The patented Eveready Layerbilt is the only battery of its kind. Built in layers that occupy all available space inside the case, it contains more active materials than any other battery of equal size. For that reason it provides more electricity. It is actually the longest-lasting and most economical battery you can buy. The reputation and resources of its makers, the National Carbon Company, stand back of it.

MILLICENT WEDS RAMOS

Will Start S. American Honeymoon Thursday

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Radiant and happy, the former Millicent Rogers, heiress to $40,000,000, was looking forward eagerly today to her honeymoon trip to South America with her second husband, Arturo Peralta Ramos, a handsome young Argentinian, whom she married last evening at Southampton, Long Island.

The couple will sail Thursday for Valparaiso De Chile aboard the liner Santa Elisa and will cross the Andes to the Argentine capital, where they will spend part of their honeymoon with the bridegroom's parents.

This was the vivacious Millicent's second marriage to a foreigner. On January 5, 1924, she was married against the wishes of her parents, to Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, an Austrian. They were divorced recently and, on August 6, her engagement to young Ramos was announced.

Her parents, Col. Henry H. Rogers, and Mrs. Rogers, apparently favored her marrying Ramos. An unconfirmed report was current today that the wedding gift of Col. Rogers to his daughter was a check for $500,000. Most of those in a position to know would not discuss the rumor, but one member of the Rogers household said the report was not true.

Millicent and Ramos were married by the Rev. Joseph Kelly in the parish house of Roman Catholic Church in Southampton. Col. Rogers and Robert Coe, Jr., cousin of the bride, were witnesses. The small group in attendance included the bride's 3-year-old son, Peter Salm. Miss Rogers' mother was not present, being in Europe.

The ceremony was arranged hastily after a dispensation had been issued by the Catholic church of which Ramos is a member. The question of the bride's divorce from Count Salm did not, however, enter into the attitude of the church on yesterday's wedding, her marriage to Count Salm not having been recognized by it because the count's divorced wife was still living, and because only a civil ceremony had united him and Miss Rogers.

Where Millicent and her new husband will reside after the honeymoon has not been definitely learned. They were in seclusion today. One report was that they will reside in South America, while from another well-informed source it was stated that they will return to New York after the honeymoon trip and that the bridegroom will be associated with the reorganized firm of Benkard Brothers, stock brokers.

JAIL DEFENDANT ON 2-YEAR OLD CHARGE

Sought by police since 1925, although he has been living here continuously, according to his counsel, Guy Gregg, of 1503 Center street, was arrested in Criminal Court yesterday on three old charges immediately after a jury had retired to deliberate on a recent charge of false pretense involving solicitation of subscriptions for a football program of Carnegie Tech.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty ordered Gregg detained on indictments found in 1925 charging highway robbery, assault and battery and larceny in connection with an alleged holdup of a gasoline station. Gregg was brought before Judge James E. Macfarlane and committed to jail under $4,000 bail.

He had been under bail on the charges of false pretense. On one of these charges, Judge Josiah Cohen, before whom he was tried, directed a verdict of acquittal.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

The Dental Method

To Firm Tender Gums

and Lighten Clouded Teeth

Accept 10-Day Tube Free. Make This Remarkable Dental Test.

WIDESPREAD dental discoveries in the care of teeth and gums have recently been made.

"Off-color" teeth have been proved quickly restorable to clear and gleaming whiteness. Tender gums are firmed, given healthy coral color.

Tooth and gum troubles were found to come largely from a film coat that forms on teeth, absorbs food discolorations and breeds bacteria.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you'll feel a slippery coating. That is film. Old-type dentifrices won't successfully combat it. That's why your teeth now remain "off color" regardless of what you do.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, those conditions have been met—you can clear that film off. Teeth whiten amazingly. One's whole appearance thus is often quickly changed.

To prove those results, accept 10-day tube free. Or get full-size tube for few cents at your druggist. Do this in fairness to yourself.

OPEN FIRE ON AUTOMOBILE 'WAR' TAX

SAY MOTOR CAR IS NECESSITY, NOT LUXURY

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A smashing drive in the administration tax reduction plan was launched before the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday when representatives of the automobile industry demanded the repeal of all motor excise taxes, producing annual revenues of $85,000,000.

In urging Congress to hold the tax cut to $225,000,000, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon made no provision for repealing or reducing the present surtax on factory prices of automobiles.

A constant drum-fire of attack was directed at Secretary Mellon's statement, that these taxes should continue because the automobile is a "semi-luxury," by a host of witnesses representing the manufacturers, dealers and owners of motor cars.

The keynote of the attack was sounded by George M. Graham, of the national automobile chamber of commerce, who declared the automobile is a positive necessity. Appealing especially for repeal of the tax on the sale of new automobiles, Graham said:

"This tax is not a tax on luxuries, as it bears directly on the clerk, the farmer, and the small merchant who must depend for transportation facilities upon the automobile."

"The tax is a levy upon a necessity. It hits first and hardest not wealth, but the man of average means. More than 70 per cent of all cars have a new wholesale value of less than $750; one-fourth of all of these are owned by farmers and most of them are used in small towns."

Graham said the members of his organization, which includes all the manufacturers of automobiles except the Ford people, would immediately "pass the benefit" along to the purchasers of automobiles if Congress would repeal the sales tax. He introduced a letter from Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, making the same pledge.

The letter said:

"It is our understanding that excise taxes were originally levied to raise revenue for war purposes. In view of the fact that the need is long since past and that practically all other articles have been relieved of excise taxes we feel strongly the same relief should be extended to automobiles."

Studebaker "Commander" Covers 1814.96 Miles In 24 Hours

A Studebaker stock "Commander" whirled around the Atlantic City Speedway on October 7th at an average speed of 75.62 miles for 24 hours.

AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO Motor Oil were used exclusively—and in this telegram from Harry Hartz, driver of the record-breaking "Commander," you'll see that he gives full credit to the part AMOCO Product played in this astounding run. In the course of the 24-hour grind a new record for the 1000-mile distance was also established.

And so splendidly did this Studebaker perform at the end of the record-breaking journey, that it was sent out for an additional 15-mile high-speed test—and was clocked for that distance at an average of 82 miles per hour!

Studebaker "Dictator" Breaks All Records For Its Price Class

Right after the Studebaker "Commander" had won the speed supremacy for strictly stock cars, a Studebaker "Dictator" was sent over the same track for a 24-hour test.

And a "Dictator" closed model—a strictly stock Studebaker—covered 1480 miles in 24 hours—averaging over 61 miles per hour! This is a record for cars listing at under $1400—an achievement worthy of a place alongside that of the higher priced "Commander" model

And once again, AMOCO Products—AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO Motor Oil—were used by the Studebaker factory representative.

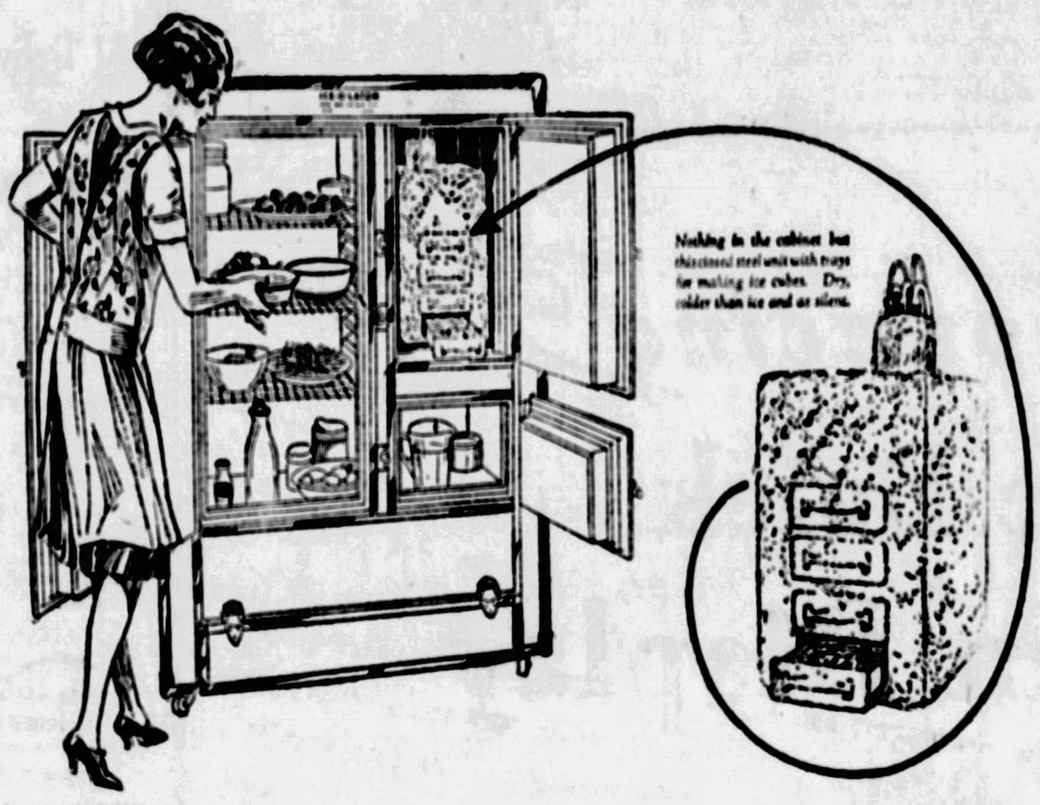
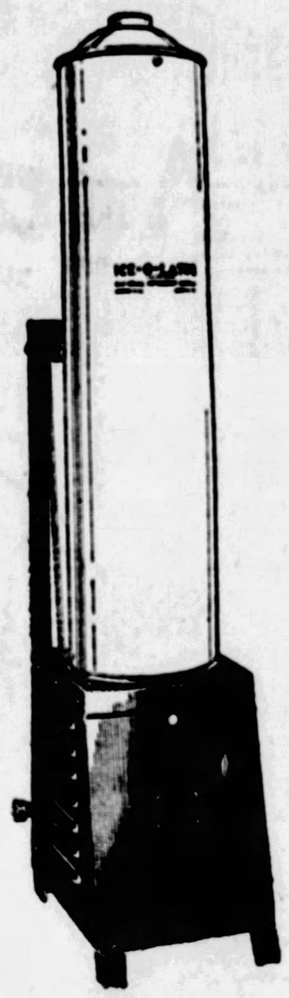
Yes! this refrigerator Runs on GAS!



See the ICE-O-LATOR demonstration during the SUN-TELE COOKING SCHOOL



This is the generating unit of the ICE-O-LATOR. It is actually a miniature of a big modern Ice Plant. Just as in the latter, the chilling action is brought about by expanding the refrigerating liquid with heat and allowing it to condense to produce cold.

The ICE-O-LATOR runs as simply as your water heater. Just light it and forget it.

Amazing as it may seem, the ICE-O-LATOR operates on Gas alone. Watch it work yourself this week at the Sun-Telegraph Cooking School in Memorial Hall or drop in any time at our appliance room, 545 William Penn Way.

At any rate, see this new household marvel.

You will notice at once that there is no vibration . . . no hum . . . no noise. That is because there is no machinery . . . no moving parts. The ICE-O-LATOR is as silent as ice itself.

And it is the cheapest form of sanitary refrigeration, too. The small gas flame burns only a part of the time. The cost of operating the ICE-O-LATOR is about half that of other automatic refrigerators. There is practically no cost of upkeep at all.

You can put the ICE-O-LATOR generating unit in your cellar if you wish. It takes only a square foot of space. And the cooling unit will work well in any good ice-box.

ICE-O-LATORS are sold by us on convenient monthly terms.

AMBASSADOR FOUND SHOT DIES

ENVOY TO U. S., OPERATED ON, SUCCUMBS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Senor Don Francisco Sanchez Latour, Guatemalan minister to the United States, and one of the most widely known of the Central American diplomats, died here last night.

The minister had been operated upon last Saturday for appendicitis. It was believed by close friends and associates that his strength, taxed perceptibly since he was found unconscious in his study last July with a bullet wound near the heart from his own pistol, was not sufficient to withstand the strain of the operation. The shooting was described by members of the family as accidental.

Senor Latour's five years of diplomatic life in Washington, as Charge D'Affaires and minister, had been marked by frequent incidents which brought his name before the public of this country, as well as in his native land of Guatemala.

Just eight months before the shooting in July, which nearly caused his death, the minister was named in a court action by his wife's divorced husband, James Armstrong, of Washington, who sought to obtain possession of letters said to have been exchanged between Senor Latour and his wife six years before she was divorced.

BUICK DISPLAY OPENS NOV. 12

Buick dealers throughout Allegheny county are completing arrangements for the Buick autumn display, which will be held November 12 to 19.

The Buick autumn display will be held simultaneously in hundreds of dealer showrooms throughout the country. A feature of the display is the formal introduction of the new Buick DeLuxe models, which will compare in interest with Buick's 1928 announcement which attracted more than 1,500,000 persons to Buick showrooms during late July.

DeLuxe Buicks embody wire wheels, front fender wells and spare wheel locks, trunk rack, full rear bumpers to replace fender guards and other optional items.

Hubby Prays That Ruth Won't Try Again

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—While plans were being made for the city's reception to Ruth Elder and Capt. George Haldeman, the daring girl flier's husband, Lyle Womack, arrived here yesterday from Cristobal, Panama.

Womack, an electric sign salesman, was excited over the prospect of being reunited with his wife, scheduled to arrive Thursday.

"I wish it were tomorrow," said Womack, "and, furthermore, I hope she never tries to fly the Atlantic again. I've been through 17 hells since the day she hopped off.

"I'm sure that when Ruth knows all I've been through she won't try it again.

"Ruth is happiest when she's keeping house. She loves a home and I know she will be content to go back to it again."

Womack, whose marriage to the girl flier took place in Birmingham, Ala., in 1925, following a year's courtship in Panama, said he did not approve trans-Atlantic flying.

"I don't believe it is a practical thing," he said. "And it is very unpleasant to gamble one's wife against weather over the Atlantic."

TRUDY EDERLE WINS PRESIDENT'S COMPLIMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Coolidge cast an appraising eye over Trudy Ederle yesterday and exclaimed: "I am amazed that a girl of your small stature could swim the channel. It was a wonderful feat." Trudy threw open her heavy fur coat to show the President that the finery of clothes covered a very athletic figure. President Coolidge complimented her again and Trudy left the White House with a happy smile.

HYPNOTIZED TO ROB, HE SAYS

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Jacob Epstein today told Magistrate McAndrew that he had been hypnotized into binding Ralph Sanchez, a diamond merchant, taking the keys to his office and his safe combination and attempting to rob the safe.

He refused to give the name of the "stronger-willed" person he says hypnotized him. The proposed robbery was a failure, for he couldn't open the safe, though he had the combination. Epstein said he knew little of the case until he walked into the arms of three detectives.

'PLANNER, SPARE THAT TREE,' HE PLEADS

"What does the City Planning Commission know about horticulture?" asked John D. Houston, 1167 Murrayhill avenue, in a letter sent to Council protesting against passage of the ordinance banning Carolina poplars and requiring a permit to plant any tree along the city streets.

"The country is already cursed with regulations, but when one must hire an attorney and obtain permission to plant it is time to suggest planting the City Planning Commission," wrote Mr. Houston, going on to denounce some street improvements recently authorized and ending: "What the average taxpayer wants is lower taxes instead of bond issues to provide traffic facilities for a horde of mortgaged autos."

Harry W. Reese, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Spring and Steel Company, also wrote to protest against the poplar ban, saying that while the trees are fast growers their roots will not enter sewers unless there is some opening. He said the poplar is one of the few trees that thrive in the atmospheric conditions here and is unusually free from disease.

Amnesia—Its Causes and Treatment

JUST now I read this is a newspaper:

"A well-dressed man, about 27, is in Grasslands Hospital, a victim of aphasia. Apparently normal except for his inability to recall who he is, the man was taken to police headquarters, where questions asked by the desk lieutenant failed to help the aphasia victim to a return of memory."

DR. COPELAND

This news item relates to an interesting state of mind sometimes observed. Of course the reporter can be forgiven for using the wrong word to describe it. He is unfamiliar with the long list of medical terms used by doctors who at times appear anxious to hide behind words.

The man described in the dispatch was suffering from "amnesia," not "aphasia."

Amnesia, as the name indicates, means loss of memory.

Aphasia is loss of the power to speak. The victim knows what he wants to say, but cannot find or formulate the word he wishes to use. He has the idea and may be able to express it by a gesture. Asked for the name of his friend, he cannot tell it, but does point to the friend, fully conscious of what was asked and who was meant.

For instance, let us consider the man described in the newspaper. If, instead of amnesia, he had aphasia, and that expression of aphasia related to his own name, he could take the telephone book, find his name in it and point out to the desk lieutenant. But by some queer freak of brain disturbance he could not pronounce his own name.

In amnesia there is an utter loss of power to recall events and ideas which should be perfectly familiar. Words which should be on the tip of the tongue are as much lost as if they had never been known.

Fortunately, a case like the one related is rarely due to any actual disease or destruction of brain structure. In 99 cases out of 100 it is what we call a "functional" trouble. Due to a temporary and passing disturbance, the symptom speedily disappears. The part of the brain that failed to work is quickly restored to normal condition.

As a result of amnesia there may be a loss of memory for just a few things. Like the case we are considering, there may be no recollection of name, family or home. Or there may be wiped from the slate of memory all the events of the immediate past. What occurred last week or last year may be gone, but the events of childhood may be as clear as if they had happened yesterday.

It is not uncommon for old people to be forgetful of the affairs of the day, and to live almost altogether in the past. But this is another story.

The amnesia victim may forget his past and be able only to recall his life from the date of an accident or mental shock. There are, as you see, various types of the mental disturbance.

A run-down condition resulting in anemia may be an important factor in producing amnesia. Sudden fright or the shock of bad news may upset a portion of that section of the brain controlling memory.

Quiet, freedom from excitement, and nourishing food will restore the victim to his usual state. Don't fuss with him or continue to ask questions. Leave him alone and he will be himself very shortly.

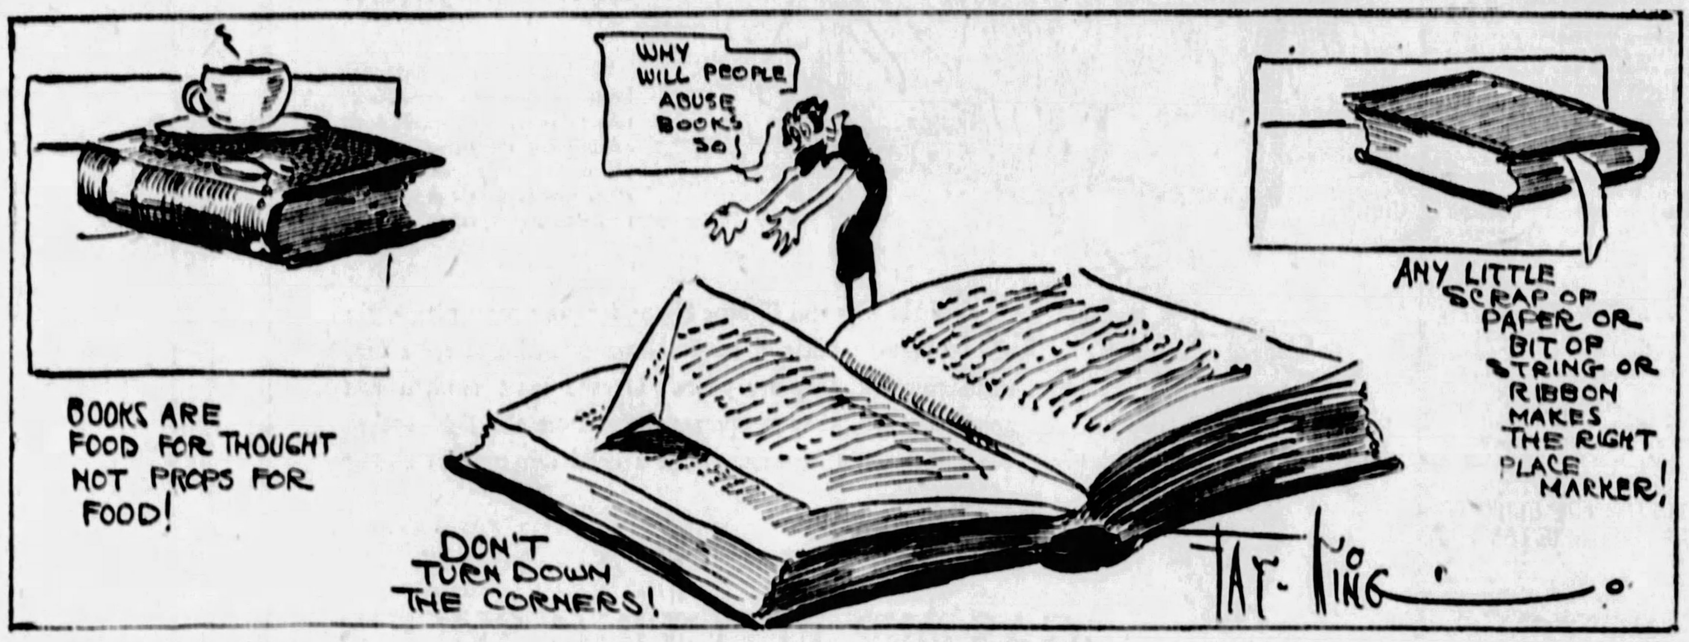
Fay King Pleads for Better Care of Books



By FAY KING

I'VE come to the con-"clue"-sion that all books taken from the public libraries are not taken out for the purpose of reading!

Rubber heelmarks on some of the covers lead me to believe that during the moving season many borrowers select books of a thickness and dimension that will aid them in hanging pictures.

And some seem to have even been used to drive the nails into the walls!

Other people seem to think that books with plenty of pictures and nice thick covers are just the thing for little Rollo to develop his fists and cut his teeth on.

Other people, I am sure, not wishing to invest in an ash tray, find the library books ideal for smoking stands, while others seem to think that anything from chewing gum to custard pie is a place marker!

Other patrons of the public library seem to be out of stationery and use the pages of these books to make out their shopping lists and note down addresses.

I have found that some have used books to press their lace collar and cuff sets.

It seems a pity that books receive such harsh treatment and by it are made short-lived.

Everyone who is a member of the circulating library should bear in mind that the better they treat these books the longer the books will last and the more pleasure they will give to more people.

Checks for Girls

Keeping young girls in check often represents a serious problem, but nothing could be simpler than to decide upon a smart jumper frock of wool check for general utility wear. College and business girls alike are favoring the small, fancy checks that are most important in the season's newest woolens.

Milady Beautiful

By LOIS LEEDS

Beauty for Oily Brown Hair.

Dear Miss Leeds—I have dark brown hair with golden-red glints in it and it looks very soft and pretty just after it is washed, but it very soon becomes oily and brittle. I wash my hai. once a week; is that too often?

MARJORIE L.

Answer—Excessive oiliness of the hair may sometimes be traced to poor physical condition or to nervousness. The first step in improving the appearance of the hair is, therefore, to build up radiant health. See that your weight is normal for your age and height; be sure to get enough sleep at night, take daily outdoor exercise and watch your diet. Once a week is not too often to shampoo very oily hair. Massage the scalp well every day and use a special tonic three times a week. You may also use a dry shampoo in the middle of the week to keep your hair soft.

Every Woman Should Know About This

It is as much your duty to be attractive as to keep a well-ordered house.

Why shouldn't every girl and woman strive to be attractive? It is not merely vanity; the modest knowledge of pleasant appearance is a mental prop that enhances whatever charms of personality its owner may have.

Let us suggest here, a recently discovered Toilet Accessory known as Mibalm Liquid Vanishing Cream.

Never before has there been offered a toilet preparation which fills such a long-felt want; never have women been so anxious to try a new product and never have they been so well pleased, and acknowledged its superior value over the old style solid vanishing creams.

MIBALM LIQUID VANISHING CREAM is a snow-white lotion, makes an ideal powder base. It is soothing, healing and mildly astringent; you can buy it at all the leading Drug and Department Stores, you can always get it at May's.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. A GRIPPING STORY OF MARGIE-WHO TRIED TO TRICK LOVE

By Gilbert Rogers

Mrs. Brooke Blames Margie For Shevlin's Actions; The Memories Hurt

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Margie Marsh comes to New York with a thousand dollars and a wonderful education. She keeps house with four other girls, learns stenography and decides after three years to marry. She fails to find her ideal, and Dan Shevlin, a shrewd man of the world, offers to introduce her into smart society through a Mrs. Brooke, provided Margie will give him some security. This security consists of a note which he dictates and Margie recklessly signs, to the effect that she loves him and will never regret the six months she has spent with him. Through Mrs. Brooke she buys wonderful clothes which Shevlin pays for. Mrs. Brooke opens her cottage in Newport and Margie meets her brother, Mark Trelaw, a cripple. She scores a success with rich Tubby Wells and discovers he is secretly married. This information greatly interests Shevlin. Mrs. Brooke confesses she is in Sheviln's power and Margie begins to feel very uneasy. She has met Jerry Evesham, a poor young man, who greatly attracts her. She goes aboard Tubby Wells' yacht in her bathing suit. He makes violent love to her and she dives off the boat and is rescued by Jerry who confesses he is mad about her. She realizes she is in love at last. She tries to break with Shevlin, but he persuades her to meet the very rich Adrian Martin. Mark Trelaw warns her against Shevlin. She confesses to Jerry that she is as poor as he. Under unusual circumstances she meets Martin. She learns that he knows Jerry and goes to his house to ask him to do what he can to help Jerry along. Jerry calls to see Martin and Margie hides. Jerry sees her and suspects the worst. As he is getting on a train to leave Newport Margie rushes after him. Later she leaves the train with Jerry still doubtful. She is very unhappy. Jerry's aunt gives her a lift back to town. Unsuspectingly she gives Shevlin information about Martin which the former seems to regard as very valuable. Margie discovers how Shevlin makes money and decides to have a showdown with him. She pleads in vain for her letter. Shevlin seizes her and kisses her. Mrs. Brooke sees them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

MARGIE was stunned. Carlotta had stood in the doorway—how long? Long enough to have seen, to have heard. But it wasn't for his betrayal that she hated Shevlin, it was Margie for attracting him. Jealousy—jealousy of anyone whom Shevlin liked—that conquered every other emotion.

"But I—I didn't—," Margie began falteringly.

Carlotta rose to her feet. She had lifted her hands, her fists clenched, her features working. She looked as if she were not quite sane. Her voice came in little sobbing gasps.

"I'd like to hurt you—kill you—for what you've done. Why—before my eyes—in my house—I—"

Shevlin stepped between them as Carlotta hurled herself forward. She fell, sobbing hard, into his arms.

Margie felt physically sick, revolted by the sordidness, by Carlotta's lack of all self-control. It was like a drunken brawl in a tenement, but instead it was taking place in a room of delicate old furniture, softly colored rugs and chintzes, a place of charm where things should always be charming... not like this. Carlotta would have struck her, tried to beat her, if Shevlin hadn't intervened.

But Mrs. Brooke was sobbing now, hysterically, and when she lifted her woe-begone eyes, the fury had left them and in their place was despair. She looked at Margie dully.

"Get to bed," Shevlin commanded. "Sleep it off." He gave a grimly humorous laugh. "Now for God's sake, don't be tearing each other's eyes out while I'm away."

Carlotta whimpered. She had not accused Dan, not even asked him for an explanation. Perhaps she had asked for other explanations in other days, long before, and now did not dare any more.

Then Carlotta's tear-stained face, with its bitter air of resentment, was turned towards her. Margie fled. She ran up the stairs to her own room, worn out, her resistance shattered. She locked the door and sat down on the bed, pressing her hands against her eyes, trying to shut out pictures, pictures that danced before her...

Presently she heard the front door being opened and then Shevlin's roadster stirring into life. And after that, coming up the stairs very slowly, Carlotta Brooke.

Margie looked with wide blue eyes into the darkness. She felt blue, and worse still, scared. How could she—by what means could she—keep Dan Shevlin from showing that reckless letter to Jerry? And if he did—if he did—well, then Jerry would be just a name, just a memory, a memory that would ache in her heart like a sense of loss forever.

CHAPTER XXVII.

IN THE morning there was golden sunlight and the fragrance of the garden roses blowing across her sill. Too bright and smiling a world to believe that you could be terrified in it, and desperate, and torn by anxiety.

Margie rubbed her eyes luxuriously stretched herself, and as she did so, the memories of last night came crowding back upon her. The high, hideous quarrel, Dan Shevlin's kiss, his intention of exposing her, exposing her to Jerry.

She felt troubled then in spite of the warmth of the sunlight and the soft, scented air. Troubled deeply by a sense of foreboding. Shevlin—she knew him now—a blackmailer, and worse. He meant what he said. And if Jerry saw that letter—!

It preyed on her mind, so that she dressed nervously and hurriedly as if she were trying to do something quickly. But what—what really could she do?

Why, tell the police, of course! Tell them Shevlin was a blackmailer. That would stop him, wouldn't it? But—if she did, it wouldn't really help her, she'd be tainted by the scandal, too. And Carlotta would suffer. And people she did not know—people whose secret lives Shevlin held in the hollow of his hand—these, too, would be punished in the pitiless white light of public exposure.

She went down stairs. Uncertainly now, thinking of Carlotta. After last night, after that stormy, half-mad accusation, how could they face each other. What would she say? She imagined Carlotta Brooke, looking ashamed perhaps, and imagined her own faltering words that would try to make light of what had happened.

The big silver coffee urn was on the table. Plates of toast and poached eggs and fruit, a low jar of flowers, and behind them—Carlotta.

"Good morning," Margie spoke pleasantly.

Carlotta looked up and shot a sudden vindictive glance. Then she dropped her eyes once more, without speaking. . . . They ate in a strained silence. Now and then Margie stole little, unhappy looks at the woman who had been so kind to her. But there was no kindness there now, there was only hate. She felt that things would never be the same again. Carlotta knew that Shevlin was attracted by her, wanted her. That was the end. Just or unjust, it meant a relentless enmity.

Without having spoken once, Carlotta left when she was through. Margie felt miserable.

"I don't want to stay here, I can't stay here another minute while she hates me!"

But what could she do, where could she go? Jerry had disappeared. There was no way of knowing where he was unless—unless she could find out from his aunt, Mrs. Farrington.

She jumped up, threw on her things, and walked briskly. But she quaked a little when she came in sight of Mrs. Farrington's ornate, stucco house. She couldn't very well ring and say she wanted to know when Jerry was coming back, if he was coming back. But she must.

"I'm such a coward," she thought mournfully, walked to the cliff, and stood there looking at the water. She was remembering a dingy little boat, and a day on a lonely beach . . and Jerry.

When at last she screwed up her courage to call, an impressive looking butler told her Mrs. Farrington was out.

"What name, madam?"

"Oh, it doesn't matter. I'll—I'll drop in later."

The morning crawled on leaden feet now. Why hadn't she found out the first time where Jerry was, all about him. Up and down in front of the Farrington house she strolled. Perhaps people were noticing her, wondering what she was doing there.

A car, the same big car that had picked her up on the lonely road a few days before, came purring up before the iron gates.

"My dear!" Mrs. Farrington's great bulk descending, Mrs. Farrington's face wreathed in smiles. "I've been wondering about you—wanting to see you. Some in, won't you? You must stay for lunch, mustn't she, Mabel?"

Mabel smiled and nodded. She was getting out of the car just behind her mother, and with her was a young, pasty-faced man with a weak smile on a weak mouth.

"You know Mr. Glenn, don't you?"

Yes, Margie knew Mr. Glenn, had met him in places. Generations before the Glenns had been austere, proud and powerful. The line had thinned out to this ineffectual youth, with nothing to recommend him except his name.

But that seemed quite enough for Mrs. Farrington. In her eagerness to please both Margie and him, she made her guests ill at ease.

Young Glenn strolled over to Margie just before lunch was served. In a corner of the immense living room, he said in a low voice:

"Wish the old gal would stop givin' me the rush." He spoke with an English accent.

Margie did not reply.

She was thinking, wondering just when and how she could find out about Jerry.

The refectory table was long enough for a club banquet. Servants moved nervously, swiftly, Under Mrs. Farrington's alert eye. She kept up a constant stream of chatter.

"My poor husband's down in the city, working himself to death on the street." If he were, Margie thought she knew whose fault that was. And again, "I'm so anxious to give a little dinner-party soon—with just the right people. You too, of course, and Mrs. Drake—" Mrs. Drake! There was as much chance of Mrs. Farrington's securing the super-exclusive Mrs. Drake for her dinner party as there was of her flying over the moon.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

FIGHT FIRE AMIDST DEBRIS

By International News Service.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 8.—Having fought and conquered flood, freezing temperatures, fire and disease, each in turn, New England today was face to face with the terrific task of rehabilitation.

Fire, the newest of New England's tortuous menaces of the past four days, struck at Ludlow, Vt., and at Springfield, Vt., yesterday, but a battle waged in knee deep slime and debris left by the retreating flood waters, found the citizens victorious today.

With food supplies already dangerously low, the Ludlow, Vt., fire added to the town's troubles by leveling the only bakery. From this shop, the citizens had been receiving their daily ration of half a loaf of bread.

Although scores of men volunteered in fighting the blaze, only the flood-saturated condition of other buildings prevented a general conflagration. High winds whipped the blazing brands over the downtown district for more than an hour before the fire was subdued.

At Springfield, frantic and weary citizens found it necessary to repair broken water mains before water could be directed on the fire which broke out there. Cambridge, Vt., denied late last night the reports circulated earlier in the day that fire had swept the community.

Notwithstanding the individual suffering that the freezing temperatures brought today, those actively engaged in the colossal labors of reconstructing and digging the scores of towns out of layers of mud and wreckage accepted the bitter cold as an ally to their tasks.

Highways were frozen, solving the problem of transportation, while the clear, cold nights carried visibility and the ability to accomplish night work.

Most of the refugees are gathered in school houses, theaters and other buildings where heat may be provided with a minimum of fuel, and, even under these conditions, a deplorable lack of fuel is reported from many Vermont and New Hampshire sections. Wood is waterlogged, while many cellars which had been stocked early with winter coal supplies were still flooded.

Army truck trains, in addition to carrying food and clothing, were rushing cargoes of coal into the Winooski River district.

SLUGGER SLUGS "SLUGGER"

Accused of having used lead slugs in slot machines in the saloon of Joseph Tukovich, at 2026 Beaver avenue, last night, Mike Janovich, of 1718 Branchport street, was struck on the head with a blackjack by Tukovich and severely injured, police say. Police arrested both, and after Janovich was treated at the St. John's General Hospital, the two were lodged in the Woods Run Police Station. Tukovich is charged with keeping a disorderly house and Janovich is charged with disorderly conduct.

ELKINS CHILD DIES AS RESULT OF BURNS

Penniless Nobleman Loses Heiress

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A destitute trickster, unlawfully in this country, who conspired to wed an unsuspecting American girl for her money, after mulcting another of her fortune—in this manner was Baron George Tornow officially characterized in a decision given yesterday by Referee Couch, recommending annulment of the Baron's marriage to the former Florence Marjorie Clendenin.

The former Miss Clendenin, daughter of the copper multi-millionaire, and the Baron's society 12 hours after marriage.

The Princess Ouchtomsky and the Baron Djamgaroffen, "buddies" of the Russian emigre and nobleman, are almost as ruthlessly handled in the referee's findings.

Referee Couch declares the Princess and Djamgaroff were fully aware of Tornow's impecunious condition and his undesirableness as a husband, but nevertheless deliberately encouraged the quickly shattered "romance" with Miss Clendenin, knowing that aside from her father's great wealth she has an income of about $18,000 a year.

Sympathetic mention is made of Harriet Collier Woodworth, whom the Baron is alleged to have promised to wed, but who, according to Referee Couch, found herself poorer by $35,000 through her trust in Baron Tornow, who was living in Greenwich Village "through the assistance of friends," before winning the heart and hand of Miss Clendenin.

Concerning Tornow himself, the referee states that though he came to the United States from Paris in October, 1925, on a visitor's passport good for three months, he continued to remain after his marriage in December, 1926.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

MAN'S MAGIC TALISMAN

ONE of the traits which a woman most admires and envies in a man is his sweet and imperturbable SELF-CONFIDENCE.

It covers him like a coat of armor, off which all stabs at his vanity, all arrows aimed at his complacency, and all blows at his pride blithely glance, leaving his self-esteem and his egotism intact.

* * *

He never doubts that he can win a woman's love if he should care to—and never fears that he may lose it, no matter what he may do.

HELEN ROWLAND

It is harder to find a man with a genuine inferiority complex than it is to find a flapper with a genuine complexion.

No matter WHAT he may see when he looks in his mirror, he is always secretly convinced that there is SOMETHING about him—je ne sais quoi—that is irresistible to the women.

Tell a man that a woman is in love with him and he will unquestionably take your word for it. Tell him that she is in love with some other man and he will laughingly assure you that she is only "kidding herself."

* * *

A man is never worried as to whether a woman really loves him or not. The only thing that worries him is whether he WANTS her to love him or not.

* * *

He will cheerfully go off and leave a woman to her own devices for a week, a month or a year—and expect to come back and start right where he left off in the romance, the flirtation or the love-affair.

* * *

He never dreams that anything more attractive, more interesting or more desirable could have come into her life in the meantime.

* * *

Yet he would not think of leaving a prize pet dog out in the cold on a park bench for a week, a day or an hour, and expect to come back and find the dear little thing sitting right there waiting to greet him with a bark of joy.

* * *

No matter how plain and commonplace a man may be, he is never surprised or flattered when the most fascinating of women bestows her favors on him. Why should he be? Hasn't he that irresistible "je ne sais quoi?"

* * *

Oh, it's a gift straight from Heaven—this beautiful sublime masculine self-confidence! It is a charm that keeps him free from all inhibitions, jealousy, self-consciousness, anxiety and insomnia. It is his preventive against wrinkles and his secret of eternal youth! It is a magic wand, which turns everything rose-colored for him.

* * *

But it's awfully wearing on the woman who happens to be in love with him! And worse on the ones who are NOT!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, November 9

The wise make of their mistakes a ladder, the foolish a grave.—D. G. PHILLIPS.

EXCEPTING for a little friendly assistance of Jupiter, in helping along a financial embarrassment, this day may be beset with many complications if not actual difficulties. There is a decided menace to employment, and the outlook for smoothly running business conditions is not promising, as Mercury operates with uncertainty.

The situation in affairs purely personal, as pertaining to romantic attachments, may be sensational or irregular.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of complications and uncertainties, business as well as employment being under hazardous influence, excepting for a fair financial prospect. But personal affairs may assume an unconventional or spectacular aspect. Sudden change is shown.

A child born on this day, although having some help from friends in power, may find it difficult to get along in business or employment unless trained to efficiency and acumen. Its personal career may be sensational.

Notable Nativity: Marie Dressler, comedienne.

Stops Indigestion at the Source

Far better than relieving indigestion troubles as they come along is to remove their cause and keep free from this misery altogether. Even the worst sufferers can avoid indigestion by taking a few Bi-nesin tablets or a teaspoonful of the powder after meals because this neutralizes excess acidity, prevents fermentation and makes indigestion impossible. Bi-nesin does more than this; it soothes, heals and protects the stomach lining and thus guards against ulcers and chronic acidity. Harmless to take, positive in action, Bi-nesin will prevent trouble always—or if indigestion has already set in, will stop the worst attack in less than five minutes. Large bottles of tablets or powder of any druggist for only 50 cents and satisfaction or money back guaranteed.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, I'm SIMply THRILLED at this point because you've no iDEA how MUCH I'm sort of LEARNing about this FOOTball situation from sort of WATCHing PRACtice every day. I mean, f'r instance, the OTHer afternoon I was all het and BOTHered because ARab told me it was SEcret practice and I couldn't WATCH them but all of a SUDden some of these awfully sweet BOYS on the TEAM, my dear, decided to 'HUDdle' with me instead of calling SIGnals—can you BEAR it? I mean I was actually WHIFFling and BURBling with JOY because it was a SIMply seRAPHIC senSAtion, my dear, because there are HEAPS of terribly goodLOOKing boys on the team, my dear, and the odd way they are sort of atTIRED in all these strange HEADguards and large-sized PADS and things they look so sort of VIRile and BRUtal and all that it SIMply FASCinates me. But I mean ARab actually makes me just TOO TIRED because the whole REASon he told me they were having SEcret PRACTice and I couldn't WATCH it was because he didn't want me to go into the 'HUDdle' with these terribly atTRACtive YOUTHS because he is just JEALous of anybody who is more inTRIguing-looking than HE is—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean can you imAGine anybody being so perfectly SIL? I mean it is just because you are POPular that PIPsqueaks like ARab CRAVE you, my dear, and yet it simply SLAYS them when you have load of atTENtion, which I think is the WILDest idea in the WORLD—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Ritzy Rosey

JINGLES, possessing an inquisitive feline nature, wants to know what it's all about. If he isn't careful he will receive a kiss on his pink nose from Ritzy Rosey. Which isn't as pleasant as it might sound. The kiss in this case happens to be a bath-powder kiss and would cause him to sneeze. Bath perfumes and softeners are being sold in all forms now, in small tablets, in "one-to-a-bath" bottles of powder or crystals. They come in containers disguised as Buddhas, dolls, animals, and the newest bath salts parade as candy kisses with gay wrappers.

Red-Beard Clings to Madge on Her Journey and Completely Baffles Her

I AM ashamed to confess it, but my first impulse upon seeing the red-bearded man emerge from the bushes was to scream. Fortunately for my self-respect, however, I managed to suppress it and listened with astonishment to the request which the ruffianly looking fellow put to Jim.

"You goin' station?" he said, pretending the utmost difficulty with the English phrasing. "You please take me? I miss train."

Jim did not reply to him directly, but stepped over to the car where I was sitting, turning his back to the man.

"Mr. Graham told me to do him a favor whenever I could," he said in a low voice.

"Very well," I returned, a bit coldly, for I was exceedingly annoyed at the proximity of the uncouth stranger.

Jim climbed hastily into the driver's seat and threw in his clutch.

"Get in," he said to the man, "or nobody will get that train today."

The man gave an agile leap to the seat beside him, and as Jim sent the car down the road at neck-breaking speed he turned himself in the seat and looked at me from beneath his queer, blinking eyelids, which gave no clue to the color or expression of the eyes beneath them.

"Tanks," he muttered, and though the expression of his face fitted the stupid peasant which he pretended to be, yet I had the oppressive feeling that beneath those drooping nervously moving eyelids keen eyes were looking me over, and appraising every detail of my appearance.

I was determined, however, that he should gain no hint from my demeanor that I thought him other than the uncouth ruffian he had appeared to be upon his visit to the farm, and also to The Larches, where he had so disturbed Eleanor Lincoln. My knowledge that he was known to Dicky, and that the secret of his identity was a huge jest to my husband, had been obtained from Katie, and I naturally could not act upon it. Therefore, without relaxing a muscle of my rigid face, I answered his acknowledgment with the brief, carefully articulated words with which I naturally would have replied to a man who knew but a few words of English.

"You are—very—welcome," I said, and immediately turned my head and became apparently absorbed in the constantly changing vistas presented by the turns in the road.

I wondered if my ears had heard aright, if it were really a quickly suppressed chuckle which I had caught. Already tense, I stiffened with anger, but the sound was not repeated.

"Just about time to get your tickets," Jim commented, as he helped me to alight, and I hastened into the station, leaving him to take care of my suitcase.

The red-bearded man had sprung from his seat almost before the car stopped and was already at the ticket window when I entered the station. As I came up to him he moved a step to one side as if to yield place to me, then as if quickly regretting his action, stepped back again, effectively keeping me away from the window until he himself had been served.

It was a curious sort of action and one which gave me food for thought. There was the air of spontaneity about his first movement with which a gentleman gives way to a woman and preserves the social amenities of his code. His hasty return to the window was, of course, a perfect keeping with his role of an alien peasant whose respect and consideration for women is so low as practically to be nonexistent. But I had the feeling that the second movement was a return of the character out of which he inadvertently had stepped for a second, and my wondering speculations as to this bizarre and mysterious stranger were intensified.

FOR THE LOVELORN

School Crazy

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been a silent reader of your column for years and find it interesting, Miss Gale. I think your advice is always good and if the girls and boys take the advice their troubles would be great. I agree with you on the kissing, petting and smoking question, and I think if a girl how to become popular by kissing, etc., she is not with the right set of people. I am 15 and a sophomore in high school. All of the girls around here of my age have dates, go out with boys, etc., and I do not. Am I right? I don't think a girl should have dates until she is around 17, do you, Miss Gale? Many boys think I am attractive and try to get me to go out, but I refuse to. I'd rather stay in and study my school lessons or read books. I am always high in my classes and take more interest in school than boys, as most of my friends go out and call me "stay," but I do not believe in their ways.

SCHOOL CRAZY."

I surely do agree with you, my dear. At your age school should come first.

C. D. M.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have read your columns and think it is good advice. I am a young man of the age of 23. I go with a girl who is 20. We are supposed to be engaged, but the way she acts sometimes makes me think she really doesn't mean it, so I would like to have your opinion on this subject. She already has dictated me on dates and also goes out machine riding. Do you think when a girl is engaged she should do that or is it that she doesn't care for me? C. D. M.

If this girl goes out with other boys and breaks engagements with you, she is certainly not very much in love with you. Talk it over with her, and if she makes that her actions are all right, then you would be much better off without her.

Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl in my teens. I have been going with a boy for two months. He tells others that he likes me, although the last time I saw him he asked me to loan him some money, for he hasn't been working for some time. I didn't. Do you think he sought my company to borrow money from me? I love him very much. I agree with you on the kissing and drinking question.

WONDERING.

Don't let yourself get much interested in the boy, my dear. Any man who borrows money as casually from a woman, is not worth his salt.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Footlights of Social Stage Will Call for Many Bows From This Season's Debutantes

THE debutante of this season will not appear before the footlights of the social stage just once—when she makes her formal bow to society at a tea given by her mother, and again, perhaps, at one ball. For a variety of luncheons, dinners and dances is being planned for each bud in addition to the traditional "coming-out" parties.

Mary Louise, charming debutante daughter of Mrs. William Terrell Johnson, of Forbes street, whom her mother presented to society yesterday afternoon at a tea, from 4 to 6 o'clock, in the Johnson home, is no exception. The tea was, by the way, one of the loveliest of the season.

That popular hostess, Mrs. Walter Frank Schleiter, will give a buffet luncheon in her home in Center avenue for Mary Louise, November 17. And on November 22 Mrs. Donald McKaig will entertain at luncheon in her home in Penn avenue for the debutante.

At the tea yesterday Mary Louise wore a distinctive frock of silvered green transparent velvet, which was untrimmed, and carried a pendant bouquet of Fontanella roses. Fontanella roses are really beautiful, a newly developed coppery yellow bloom. Centering the roses of the bouquet was a cluster of yellow orchids, outlined and showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Johnson appeared in silver cloth, with the tunic of her gown edged with dyed mole, while her mother, Mrs. John Worthington, was gowned in black velvet touched with silver lace.

The debutante's bouquet was indicative of the color scheme; for everywhere were golden flowers. Vases of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums were used in the halls, and the gift bouquets were arranged with an embankment of cibotium ferns and crotons to provide a setting for the receiving party in the large living room of the residence. The buffet table in the family dining room was centered with yellow roses, lavender and yellow orchids and white bouvardia.

Presiding at this artistic tea table during the afternoon were Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. James I. Kay, Mrs. William J. Holland, Mrs. Howard Hale McClintic, Mrs. Mortimer Miller and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church.

Mrs. Johnson's aides were Mrs. Howard Heinz, Mrs. J. King Scott, Mrs. John Hartwell Hillman, Jr., Mrs. Greer Coolidge, Mrs. Edward J. House, Mrs. Christopher C. Sandels, Mrs. Judson J. Brooks, Mrs. Samuel Alfred McClung, Mrs. George Singer Ebbert, Mrs. Leslie M. Johnston, Mrs. Walter Frank Schleiter, Mrs. Merrill Wright and Mrs. Julian Burdick.

And the debutante's aides included Marjorie Babcock, Juliet Hillman, Anne King Scott, Mary Mellon McClung, Florence Carroll, Elizabeth George, Jane Foster and Mary Childs, all debutantes of this season, and Mary Oliver, Margaret McClintic, Frances Burdick and Elizabeth Lupton Scott.

Mrs. William D. Hamilton, of the Hotel Schenley, who has for some time been a prominent figure in Pittsburgh society, will entertain with a bridge luncheon tomorrow afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club. The honor guest is Mrs. John P. Penney. By the way, I saw Mrs. Hamilton at Mary Louise Johnson's tea yesterday.

* * *

The William Watson Smiths, of Wilkins avenue, had as their guest over the week-end, I hear, the secretary of the Navy, Curtis Dwight Wilbur.

CLUB WOMEN TOLD ABOUT SEA WONDERS

Fish that walk, fish that fly and fish that have hands were among the wonderful motion pictures shown by William Beebe, famous naturalist, before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning and the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club and the Edgeworth Club last night. Mr. Beebe described his trip on the four-master schooner, the Lieutenant, which was anchored for four months on a coral reef near Haiti. Tents were set up on the deck and the entire crew, with the exception of the captain, was dismissed, for, said Mr. Beebe, "stokers are not enthusiastic scientists." Diving in the appliance, especially contrived by Mr. Beebe—a brass helmet with a glass front and a double-action automobile pump—was done by nearly every member of the party, and photographs were taken and drawings made under the water.

"Walking beneath tropic seas is like going to another planet, and Alice in Wonderland things happen to you," Mr. Beebe said in recounting some of these things and in showing both still and motion pictures of the almost unbelievable life in those waters. In 200 days 230 species of fish were found.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

How I make Cakes—perfect every time!

Success depends on following the recipe and method carefully. So be sure to read your recipe and method through to the end before you start to work. Then start your oven, get out all the utensils you will need and grease your pans.

When you grease them with Crisco, you do not need to flour them. Crisco contains no moisture to cause your cakes to stick to the pans and scorch. Therefore, your cakes will come out whole, with no unsightly breaks, and an even brown all over.

Measurements must be accurate

Here is a way I have found to measure shortening accurately. To measure, for example, ¾ of a cup of Crisco, I take a measuring cup, put in ¼ cup of cold water, then add enough Crisco to bring the water to the top of the cup, pour it off, and I have an exact ¾ cup of Crisco.

The importance of the right shortening

I used to make all my cakes with butter. After I began to make my cakes with Crisco, using no butter at all, I found that they were perfectly delicious and my reputation as a cake-maker was just as high as ever. When my Crisco cakes are compared with cakes made with butter, no one can tell the difference.

If you are one of those who simply find it unbelievable that you can use all Crisco in cakes, try half butter and half Crisco at first. Then next time, perhaps, three-fourths Crisco and one-fourth butter. I am sure you will be so pleased with the results, that before you know it you will be using all Crisco for all your cakes.

Importance of creaming shortening and sugar

Not everyone realizes the importance of creaming the shortening and sugar together. The purpose is to soften the grains of sugar, and this is done by beating the sugar with the shortening until the mixture is soft and fluffy, and does not feel grainy to the spoon.

To have your layers even and of uniform thickness, divide your batter in equal parts and spread evenly over the bottom of the pans.

Correct baking temperature important

Up-to-date recipes give you correct temperature. If you are an experienced cake-maker and have never used a thermometer, you, of course, have your favorite way of testing your oven for the proper heat. If not, I advise you to buy an inexpensive oven thermometer. It will be a great help to you.

If you have your own favorite cake recipes, simply use Crisco in the place of the shortening your recipe calls for, adding 1 teaspoon of salt to every cup of Crisco used.

Standard Layer Cake

This recipe can be used as a standard for a variety of layer cakes. It will make a large 3-layer cake, and also six cup cakes. Or, instead of making the cup cakes, you can make four layers, making two cakes of two layers each.

½ cup Crisco — 2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt — 2 cups sugar
1½ cups milk — 4 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups pastry flour

Cream Crisco and sugar together thoroughly. Add egg yolks, well beaten. Beat in the milk, a little at a time. Then add ½ cup flour and beat until smooth. Sift rest of flour with baking powder and salt. Add to mixture and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla. Last fold in well-beaten egg whites. Divide batter into three well-Crisco'ed layer cake pans and six cup cakes. Bake in hot oven (375° F.), about 15 minutes. When partly cool, turn out on towel. When quite cold, spread filling between and on top of the layers.

Prune Cake

2 cups pastry flour — ½ teaspoon allspice
½ cup Crisco — 1 cup stewed and mashed prunes
1 teaspoon soda — 1 cup sugar
2 eggs (separated) — ½ cup sweet milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco and sugar thoroughly. Add egg yolks well beaten. Then stir in prunes. Sift together, soda, spices, salt and flour and add alternately with milk. Last fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in loaf pan, one hour in moderate oven (325° F.).

Be sure prunes are thoroughly drained of all juice.

An Astonishing Blindfold Test

SEE if this doesn't give you the greatest surprise of your whole cooking experience!

Put a little Crisco on the tip of one spoon. On the tip of another place a little of the fat you are now using; have someone blindfold you, and give you first one, then the other fat to taste.

Now, did you ever imagine there could be such a striking difference in the taste of raw cooking fats? Think what an improvement Crisco's sweetness and freshness will make in your own cakes, pies, biscuits and fried foods.

Crisco is the trade-mark for a vegetable shortening manufactured and guaranteed purely vegetable by The Procter & Gamble Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.

Featherweight White Cake
(above)

½ cup Crisco — 2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar — ½ cup milk
2 cups flour — 1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco with sugar. Stir in alternately milk and sifted dry ingredients. Fold in thoroughly stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla and turn batter into two greased layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.).

Ice with Seven Minute Icing.

Seven Minute Icing

½ cup sugar — 1 egg
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar or baking powder — 3 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Place all ingredients in top part of double broiler, having water in lower part boiling. Beat together until thick enough to spread. Add vanilla.

Precaution—Have fine sugar or melt it in water before adding egg.

To test your cooking fat —taste it raw.

Crisco's superiority will astonish you.

With the Sandlot Gridders

By TOM BIBBS.

Nothing happened over the week-end to mar the serenity of the leaders of the independent gridiron in the tri-state district unless it was the inability of the East Pittsburgh Firemen to defeat the Duquesne Apprentices at the Valley grounds. Evans, of Hazelwood, had previously defeated the Duquesne gridders, so now Evans might refuse to meet East Pittsburgh before the season closes.

"Sonny" O'Neill, the Evans' flash, demonstrated his ability to score touchdowns again on Sunday. The Hazelwood gridders met another undefeated team in Oakmont, but Joe Petrolle's defense found that holding the Rand field flash is a man's size job and Sonny added two more notches to his gun.

Jakie Bohren was given plenty to do in that C. M. C. game at Carrick on Sunday. But Jakie's one trick, that of a fake forward pass did not net any outstanding yardage. One of the Belack tacklers usually got through and smeared the play.

Belack is again demonstrating the fact that he compares with any independent center in the district. Belack was the all-star center of last season, and should the big North elder keep up that form, he again should be in the limelight.

Chester, the Port Vue star, is getting into the limelight these days. His wonderful work dropped Christy Park from the race, and again on Sunday he led the field in yardage gained.

Manager Freddy Iverson, of the McKeesport Olympics, made good his threat that the Olympics want to meet the best in this district. Hope-Harvey traveled to the Tube city on Sunday and lost the decision.

GENEVA FANS PLEASED OVER GROVE CITY WIN

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 8.—Beaver Valley joined with Geneva College in celebrating the very satisfactory 13-6 victory scored by the Covenanters over Grove City last Saturday.

It was the first time in three years, or since the advent of Col. Alvin (Bo) McMillin at Geneva, that the locals were able to defeat the Crimson. In 1926, with a chance to make a fine record showing the drivers, the Covenanters lost 3-0 in one of the season's upsets.

CALIFORNIA COMMISSION FACES FANS' SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—(U.P.)—Seeking a refund for the money they paid to see the Joe Dundee-Ace Hudkins welterweight championship fight which failed to materialize, ticket holders today planned to file suit against the State Athletic Commission and Dick Donald, promoter.

Attorney Vernon Hamilton said the complaint would recite that ticket holders are entitled to full remuneration and would oppose any attempts to have the proceeds of Donald's "Battle Folly" turned over to charity.

Donald's name is included among the defendants. The State Athletic Commission is the main offender, Hamilton said.

Dundee, Max Waxman, his manager, and Donald all will stand trial here December 2 on charges of false advertising. The state will attempt to prove they continued to advertise the show after they knew it could not be held.

FREE JACK JOHNSON ON LIQUOR CHARGE

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind., Nov. 8.—Charges of transporting liquor were dismissed today against Jack Johnson, Negro, former heavyweight champion of the world, for want of evidence.

Johnson was arrested here four years ago by Sheriff Sam Steel, who claimed he found liquor in the Negro's car. Johnson put up $1,000 worth of diamonds for a $1,500 bond posted by Frank Nott, of Columbia City. Then the former champ departed.

Recently he was arrested again and brought here to face the charges, when it was found that the evidence had been destroyed by court order.

Grid Star Cruel, So Wife Gets Divorce

RENO, Nev., Nov. 8.—On the grounds of extreme cruelty, Mrs. Rita Imlay was late this afternoon granted a decree of divorce from Talmo W. "Tut" Imlay, former University of California football star.

Judge George A. Bartlett granted Mrs. Imlay the rights to resume her maiden name of Rita Benedict. The couple were married in Hollywood, June 29, 1926.

SHOTS and PASSES

by JULIUS LEVIN

RANKED as one of the leading centers in the country in the development of first-class independent and amateur teams, Pittsburgh is handicapped in the promotion of basketball on a major scale, due to the lack of an auditorium suitable for the accommodation of large crowds.

The South Side Market House, the only city-owned property available for independent clubs, has been in need of repairs for several years, yet city officials have shown no inclination to improve conditions at the Twelfth street auditorium.

LAST season several prominent players were injured at the South Side Market House due to the fact the floor was covered with puddles of water as a result of a leakage in the roof. Although the numerous clubs using this hall for home games made complaints to the city no effort has been made to improve playing conditions.

The market house is used by members of the Commercial-Industrial League and numerous other independent clubs for home contests, but unless steps are taken to improve the property basketball on the South Side will prove a failure.

The South Side always has been a hot-bed for independent and amateur basketball and it's a shame that teams in that vicinity cannot have a floor that compares with those of other clubs.

NATE LIPPE, star of the Enoch Rauhs last season and now coach at Woodlawn High School, was married to Miss Elliof of Beaver Falls yesterday. The Lippes plan to make their home in Woodlawn.

Lippe is well pleased with his connections at Woodlawn and it is hardly likely that he will perform in the Allegheny County League this winter.

DRIBBLES

The Duquesne University basketball squad inaugurated practice on the Bluff yesterday with one of the largest squads in the history of the school. Coach Chick Davies has a wealth of material available for this year's varsity and indications point to another successful floor campaign.

The Penn Cadets, of Sharpsburg, have dates open at home and abroad for strong junior teams. Call Sterling 5327.

Harry Mester has been named manager of the Sumer Somerman Club of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League. The Somermans are eager to arrange games at home and abroad with first-class teams. Write the manager at 1313 Fifth avenue, or call Grant 1482.

The Goldenson Furnitures of the P. & O. League will meet the American Legion team at Braddock on November 11 in a pre-season contest. The Goldensons have made an excellent showing in the workouts to date and are likely to make a strong bid for the league title this winter.

Johnny Serbin has been named coach and captain of the Kaufmann five of the P. & O. League. Serbin will divide his basketball activities between this club and the Reubs.

St. Canice Lyceum will be a member of the Catholic Lyceum League this winter, according to J. J. Freund, organizer of the loop.

Indications are that the Butler Bruin Oils will be a member of the Allegheny County League. A Butler representative will be in attendance at the next meeting of the league late this week.

Three teams are bidding for the vacancy in the Commercial-Industrial League, namely Hubbard, Bell Telephone and Joseph Horne Company. Judging by the caliber of teams already enrolled in this loop, the race should prove one of the best in years.

The Somermans have leased Columbus Temple for Thursday nights for their home games in the P. & O. League. The Lou Gordon Club will appear in all preliminary games.

Those out to win a regular berth on the Sumer Somerman team this winter are Sam Klotzman, captain; Red Phillips, Red Sapira, Sam Pratt, Walt Abrams, Dave Slatsky and Bill Amerikus.

The Goldenson Furnitures are hard at work for their opening battle of the season with the Braddock American Legion team at Braddock on November 21. The Goldenson Vanities will meet the Kinlos Girls in the preliminary game.

W. VA. IN SHAPE AFTER DEFEAT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 8.—The West Virginia University football squad arrived from Columbia, Mo., slightly ahead of schedule time yesterday morning in first-class condition despite the gruelling game with the Missouri Tigers last Saturday.

Coach Rodgers will have the full strength of the Mountaineer squad at his disposal, barring injuries this week, when Davis-Elkins is encountered at Morgantown next Saturday. All indications point to a terrific fight at Mountaineer Field when the Scarlet Hurricane sweeps down from Randolph county, for the Senators have been pointing for this clash since the start of the season.

Coach Rodgers is planning to spend most of the week in perfecting a defense against the forward passing attack of the Henderson-coached eleven, for he realizes that the aerial offense of the Hurricane will be hard to stop.

DAYTON AND MIAMI TO MEET SATURDAY

DAYTON, O., Nov. 8.—The University of Dayton eleven will attempt to hurdle the first of two great obstacles to the Flyers' Ohio Conference football championship, next Saturday when Dayton's lads lock horns with the Big Red from Miami University in Dayton's stadium.

Pirate Puck Chasers Show Improvement

THE mere fact that the Pirates are the only club in the American section of the National Hockey League that will start off the 1927-28 campaign with the same make up that finished last season, is no good reason to believe that the Duquesne Garden skaters are not as good as any other club in the circuit, in the opinion of Manager Odie Cleghorn the local puckmen appear to stand an even chance of winning their group title this winter, although the Pirate skipper admits that Tex Rickard's New York Rangers and Brother Sprague's Boston Bruins will have to be beaten first.

From the way the Pirates are shaping up in the preliminary workouts, and the splendid form being shown by several of the players who were of little use to the club last winter, it looks as though the Freezers are destined to surprise their admirers this winter. There is no faster aggregation in the league than the Pirate outfit, and with an improvement in their team-play, evident in the workouts, Cleghorn is prone to believe that Pittsburgh patrons of the popular winter sport are destined to witness part of the playoffs here next March.

When the Pirates lineup against Detroit Cougars at the Garden next Tuesday night they will face a much changed outfit from that which represented the Michigan city last winter, yet the local lads, as well as their boss, are not in the least skeptical of the outcome.

Several new, but familiar faces will be found with the Detroit team when it comes here next week. Reg Noble, the crack defense man with the Montreal Maroons last year, will be with the Cougars, as will George Hay, the speedy left winger, last season with Chicago, and Traub, a defense man, also of the Chicago club.

NOTRE DAME IN SHAPE FOR CLASH WITH ARMY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 8.—(INS.)—Despite the bone-crushing tilt with the powerful Minnesota eleven here Saturday, all of Notre Dame's regulars came out of the fray without serious injuries. Many of Rockne's stars are so light they appear frail, especially alongside such man-eaters as compose the Minnesota line and backfield. The Irish squad is already hard at work for the invasion of West Point Saturday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 8.—(INS.)—Sore and weary after the clash with Notre Dame, and retarded by inclement weather, the Gophers were taking things easy today. Coach Doc Spears denies a little intensive training later in the week will be sufficient to take care of Drake, slated for slaughter by Minnesota this Saturday.

EQUINE ARISTOCRACY REPLACES COW PONIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Prancing cavalry chargers ridden by officers of a half dozen nations, the sleek, aristocratic mounts of society, and dashing matched teams of trick performers, have replaced the wild horses and cowboy ponies of the rodeo at Madison Square Garden this week.

Where the spurred and be-chapped Western "hands" dashed through the rawhide roping calves, wrestling steers, or leaping to the backs of wild mustangs, last week, the finest of equine blood now is performing in the annual National Association Horse Show before stately audiences of soldiers, statesmen and New York society.

CUE MATCH SHAKY

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—The scheduled championship match for the pocket billiard title at Schenectady, N. Y., between Frank Taberski, the champion and P. Natalie, challenger, on November 16-18, is likely to fall through, Natalie said today, because the $150 guarantee offered in Taberski's home town is too small.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

—then the Break-down!

No warning except perhaps a persistent tiredness—then a sudden break-down and an "old man" overnight! That is the fate of many men today who live at the twentieth century pace. One of the results of the killing pace is a weakening of the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver, "laying down," fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then an insidious poisoning of the system—toxemia—and a general undermining of health, with high blood pressure, kidney trouble, hardening of the arteries and premature old age.

If you would keep in A1 condition, physicians say keep the liver vigorous and active. Nothing better for this than a little ox gall. As the medical profession knows, ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the liver, building up its strength and activity. The genuine pure ox gall is to be had in tasty and tasteless form in Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c each, at good druggists. Be sure you get Dioxol, with the name and picture of an ox's head on the package.

"No Coaching Job For Me," Says Grange

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Red Grange today turned thumbs down on the idea of ever becoming a football coach.

"If there's anybody in the world who takes more grief in the form of criticism than the President of the United States," said Red, 'it's the coach of a college football team. None of that for mine."

With his fiery thatch on a pillow, while the coach and trainer of his New York Yankees wrapped steaming woolen blankets around his right leg, Red allowed he'd stay in the professional game a few years more. This year he expects also to make another movie or two.

"Funny in this pro game," Red pursued his horizontal reflections. "These fellows who were All-Americans in college aren't half so tough as some of these birds from small colleges that you never heard of.

"Another thing—age doesn't seem to count. There're a lot of fellows of 35 and 36 years old playing football in this league that we'd be mightly glad to get on the Yankees. They can put it all over the young lad of 21 or 22 just out of college."

Built for comfort, what I mean!

COMFORT and lots of it. I'm talking about Prince Albert, Gentlemen, the National Joy Smoke. Why, there's friendliness in the very aroma of P. A., as you open the tidy red tin. Some fragrance it is, too.

The first pull on a pipe packed with P. A. tells you the taste is equally friendly. Cool and long-burning. Sweet as grape-clusters, hanging on the vine. Mild as arctic sunshine, yet with plenty of good, rich tobacco-body to let you know you're smoking. So mild, in fact, that you can load-up and light-up from breakfast to bedtime.

Now, I'm not one to mix in on other people's affairs. But this pipe-thing is different, somehow. I can't resist tipping you off to what I consider the greatest pipe-tobacco in the world. Get some P. A. now and get some of this comfort I've been telling you about.

Jack Zivic Loses to Young Saylor

VET FALLS VICTIM TO GOOD LEFT

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

YOUNG SAYLOR of Charleroi, last night, at Motor Square Garden, fought the fight he has been wanting to fight for almost a year and won it and maintained his proud record of never having been defeated, Jack Zivic, former pride of Lawrenceville, who is coming back here shortly from New York to make his home in Pittsburgh again, was his opponent and Saylor carried all but the sixth and last rounds, and in the final heat he was playing safe and letting Zivic do the forcing to win the session by a slight margin.

Last March, Saylor almost was matched with Zivic. The bout was all set to go when Saylor put a disappointing finish on a battle with Tug Phillips, and, as a result, Cuddy DeMarco was signed to take his place in a return bout with Zivic a week later. Two weeks ago, at Motor Square, Saylor had a bad night against Teddy Esterbrook of Niles, O., but won the fight, and again a match with Zivic almost was queered. The club went through with it this time, however, and Saylor came through with flying colors.

Saylor, whose real name is Homer Gobert and who is the father of a small family, boxed an aggressive but cautious battle to whip Zivic. He left-handed Jack silly, and the fans all know what a pippin that southpaw fin of Saylor's is. He can cut plenty of didoes with it, while his right fist is virtually useless, except for defensive purposes. He never let Jack get set, jabbing him at will and hooking to the head, and when Jack rushed he took a half-step backward and then let fly with a left swing to the body that seldom failed to connect. Meanwhile Zivic, who was engaging in his first fight since he broke his right hand in a bout with Hilario Martinez in New York last July, couldn't get going in his old style. Once in a while he would start to stalk Saylor about the ring, or throw his old left hook, and he used his right fist more than he usually does, but he was unable to keep up a consistent punching attack. It was one or two socks and then a clinch, and Saylor tied him up prettily in those embraces, while the Charleroi man's left generally was free to keep on punching.

After the battle, Zivic was very much disappointed with his exhibition, although he had made an interesting battle of it.

"I was going well in the gym," he said. "Guess I'm getting to be one of those gymnasium fighters. Everything in the gym and nothing in the ring."

Jack goes from here to Erie, where he fights Heavy Andrews Friday night. He knocked out Bucky Lawless in his last appearance in Erie, and Lawless last week defeated Willie Harmon. Jack said

DUKES HOPE TO SPILL JACKETS HERE

By JESS CARVER.

PITTSBURGH'S college football teams settled down yesterday to another week of intense football activity, that will culminate Friday and Saturday when all three of the local varsities, Pitt, Tech and Duquesne, will swing into action at home.

The intersectional struggle between Pitt and Nebraska, of course, overshadows by far the two Armistice Day attractions featuring Tech and Western Reserve of Cleveland and Duquesne and Waynesburg, who meet in a Conference battle on the Bluff. This Pitt-Nebraska game is one of the four most important intersectional struggles of the year, the other three being the Army-Notre Dame also on the card for this week-end; the Ohio State-Princeton affair of last Saturday and the Notre Dame-Southern California meeting in Chicago later in the month.

The Panthers have a chance to get back into the serious running for the Eastern and national championship in the Nebraska game. Victory for Pitt over the Cornhuskers will put Sutherland and his crew right up in the front of the pict, providing Yale takes over Princeton. Should the Tigers down the Eli, however, Princeton must be awarded the palm then and there. They have beaten, Cornell, Ohio State, Washington and Lee, Amherst, Lehigh and William and Mary, not such a bad record. Add a victory over Yale to this, stir slowly and mix with the fact that only two teams have been able to score on the Tiger defense, and you have a pretty tasty championship morsel.

But if Yale takes over Princeton, and this correspondent is reliably informed that such is very likely to be the case, and the Army happens to hook old Notre Dame, then all Pitt needs to do to claim the Eastern title is to down Nebraska and Penn State.

W. & J., with only Bucknell and West Virginia left, won't have near the impressive record Pitt will have if victories are forthcoming in the remaining contests.

PITT GIVEN REST

Coach Sutherland didn't work the boys very hard yesterday, just giving them enough to do to loosen the kinks and sore spots picked up in the W. & J. game. The most serious injury suffered by the Panthers were to their feelings. They felt badly over the draw with the Presidents, not only on their own accounts, but because of Jock. They were exceedingly anxious to go through a season undefeated and untied, for the sake of the big Scot. And it was a creditable desire.

From all the advance dope on Nebraska, it looks as though Pitt will have this fellow Fresnell to stop if the Westerners are to be beaten. He is another Booth, according to descriptions, though he is said to be much faster than Dickie. Maybe there will be a great fullback duel on in the Stadium Saturday.

Carnegie Tech has another ice-down game booked in Reserve. The Forest City school hasn't had a real football team for so long that they have almost slipped out of front-page class, even in Cleveland. About the only time they attract any attention is when they battle Case in the annual city championship clash, and then it doesn't mean much. Case and Reserve, as institutions, are so entwined, with buildings backing up against each other and students mixed in everything but classes, that one finds it hard to differentiate between the two, even in athletics.

The Tartans need the rest, for after Reserve comes Detroit and then the long and tiresome journey to Oregon, where the Aggies are to be played in the finale.

DUKES FACE TEST

Duquesne faces the sternest test of the season since the Geneva game Friday in Waynesburg. The Durable Ones on the Bluff have won three ball games in a row, have taken two out of four Conference games and tied one and now are

THREE NEW PILOTS SURE FOR 1928 FLAG RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—National League teams will have at least three new pilots for the 1928 pennant race.

This was assured yesterday when two shifts were announced almost simultaneously, one resulting in the selection of Bill McKechnie to succeed Bob O'Farrell as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and the other sending Burt Shotton to replace Stuffy McInniss at the helm of the Phillies. The Boston vacancy, created by the departure of Dave Bancroft to Brooklyn, was filled recently by the appointment of Jack Slattery, Boston college coach.

McKechnie was a Cardinal coach last season and takes over full managerial responsibilities with the hearty approval of the man he succeeds. O'Farrell never has entertained managerial ambitions and succeeded Rogers Hornsby, it is understood, only at the urgent request of President Sam Breadon.

The latter now is convinced, however, that "to spoil a great catcher like O'Farrell is an expensive way of obtaining a manager." Given a $5,000 salary increase, O'Farrell will be free to attend to his backstopping next year.

It is a comeback for McKechnie, who led Pittsburgh to a pennant and world's championship in 1925, but was released at the close of the 1926 season after dissension had cropped out in the Pirate ranks and spoiled their prospects.

Shotton steps into the major league managerial spotlight from the A. A. minor league ranks just as Joe McCarthy, Donie Bush and Dan Howley have in recent seasons. He has played the "big time" outfield for Washington, the Browns and Cardinals, but managed the Syracuse Internationals last season, converting them from a second division outfit to a pennant contender and finishing in second place.

McInnis, who has been with six major league clubs at one time or another, was released unconditionally by the Phillies.

TEMPLE-BUCKNELL GAME TO DRAW LARGE CROWD

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 8.—Temple University alumni in all parts of the country, and particularly in the East, are planning to attend the football game between Temple and Bucknell on Franklin Field on November 19.

This game, which will close the football season for the Temple team, will be the climax of the greatest assemblage of former Temple students in the history of the university, and plans are being made for a record-breaking attendance of Temple rooters.

One All-Star Team May Get Into Action

By Universal Service.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Champ Pickens, Alabama football enthusiast, who will watch the Tennessee-Vanderbilt game here next Saturday, plans to pick an all-Southern eleven this winter, have them put through practice sessions and take them to the Pacific Coast for the annual New Year's game at Pasadena, it was learned last night. He will confer with Coach Neyland while here.

It is said close tab has been kept on the gridiron performers of the Southern Conference and that the stars will be assembled into an invincible team to be taken West to do battle with the champions on the coast.

U. P. ELEVEN CLOSES SEASON WITH THIEL

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 8.—Coach Dyke Beeded started his Westminster College football varsity on the final drive of the season in preparation for the closing game with Thiel College this week.

This game will be one of the hardest of the year, for the Lutherans have a dangerous forward passing team, and have three good ball carriers in Schillings, Mitchll and Stan Berkum.

Both elevens have been defeated by the Dukes of Duquesne, and both have scoreless ties with Waynesburg to their credit. Westminster hopes to close the year with a win over Holleran's team.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

PRESIDENT BARNEY DREYFUSS of the Pirates, home from a tour of the Southland following the wedding of his son in Memphis two weeks ago, is plunging into the work of Buccaneer off-season affairs that require his attention, and hopes to have a mass of detail cleared up before he departs again to attend the National League's annual meeting in New York on December 12.

There is plenty of work ahead of the Pirate chief executive, particularly in the matter of continuing the cutting down of the roster that was begun with the release of Heinie Groh recently to Charlotte, in the South Atlantic League.

In addition to the players whom Manager Donie Bush plans to use in trades in the National League, there are several others to be sent to the minors, either in part payment for such purchased men as Pitcher Fred Fussell, or under different arrangements.

"TRADES?" echoed the Pittsburgh magnate when asked if the club's operations along that line were making satisfactory progress, if any. "No, everything is quiet at present, as Manager Bush has gone to Florida on a vacation trip and all trading matters are entirely in his hands.

"Perhaps he may be carrying on a correspondence with the managers of some of the other clubs with a view to opening negotiations, but I hardly look for anything to develop in the immediate future. As a matter of fact, after the recent delays, nothing may be done before the league meeting.

"ANYHOW, there is no occasion for hurry about the matter," continued President Dreyfuss. "We are not going to play any more games until next spring, so we shall not need any new players until then. Consequently it is not necessary to make any trades nor to try any changes in the lineup right away.

"Sometimes delay is actually helpful when you are figuring on making a trade, for it happens occasionally that when you make a swap in a hurry you discover afterward that you could have made a better one if you had only waited a while longer. So it pays to wait sometimes.

"But it's all in Manager Bush's hands. Whatever he wants to do in the trading line, or whenever he wants to do it, is for him to decide. He is the man who must handle and work with the new player or players he gets, so it is for him to make the selections from among any new men whom we may be able to obtain."

WHILE not wholly unexpected, inasmuch as the appointment had appeared to be the only logical one that could be made, the naming of Bill McKechnie as manager of the St. Louis National League club to succeed Bob O'Farrell was none the less gratifying to McKechnie's host of friends and to the fans of this section in general.

Even though an unfortunate situation arose here in 1926 that left no other course open to the Pirate owners than to dismisse both McKechnie and Fred Clarke, in addition to several others, in order to restore harmony, fans of this district have continued to hold a high regard for Bill's managerial qualities.

McKECHNIE'S appointment to lead the Cards next year, when a change had been decided upon is looked upon as a deserved reward for the work he did with that team during the 1927 season, as O'Farrell's lieutenant and chief adviser.

Stepping into the managership of a club as strong as the Redbirds, a real pennant contender in fact, was rather a good break of fortune for McKechnie, but the general opinion

W.P.I.A.L. To Pick Champ

FOR the first time in the history of the league, the W. P. I. A. L. will decide its own football champion without staging a title game. A committee appointed last June will meet the Saturday following Thanksgiving to look over the schedules and scoring records of the teams in the league, the championship being awarded on a scoring basis.

In former years the league officials steered clear of the football situation, leaving it entirely to the Syracuse cup, who annually awards a trophy to the champion and will do so again this year. A muddled situation, which occurred for two years, left a dissatisfied feeling in some quarters and it was decided at the league meeting last June that the league would take full responsibility beginning this season.

Another thing that has been done away with is the fact that should a team be defeated by a non-league member it does not eliminate it from a title rating. In previous years a defeat for a team regardless of the opponent would automatically put it out of the running for the championship. This ruling brings New Castle back into title rating. The Lawrence Countians having lost only one game and that to Youngstown South by the score of 7 to 6.

NEW CASTLE IN

Greensburg, Jeannette, Norwin, Westinghouse and Clairton, undefeated league members, would ordinarily get the preference in years gone by, but not so this season. Their records will be gone over just the same as all the other teams and regardless of a defeat or not the team holding the best point scoring mark will be awarded the title. As it stands now a team is given 100 points for defeating another opponent, while every game that opponent wins adds 10 more markers to that 100.

New Castle holds the point scoring mark in the league with a total of 349 points to 20 for their opponents. Westinghouse has tallied 290 markers to 18; Greensburg scored 259 to 18; Jeannette, 224 to 0; Norwin, 202 to 7, and Clairton, 86 to 6. Scoring records, however, mean little, for the committee picks out five opponents, awards a 100 points to each making a total of 500, and then looks over the record of the quintet, picking out their victories, for which 10 points is awarded.

Red Grange Calls Off Role of Ice Man

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Red Grange is to tote no more ice.

"The Wheaton Iceman," who popularized the business as an avocation for halfbacks in the off season, declared today he believes the practice causes rheumatism.

"Yes, sair," said Red, "that cold water on your shoulders doesn't do anybody any good. I know some old-time ice toters back home and it's ruined 'em. I'm going to stick to shoveling cement and playing golf like I did last summer."

GILES WINS MEDAL AT PINEHURST MEET

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 8.—Ellsworth Giles, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and a member of last year's Princeton golf team, won the qualifying medal yesterday in the qualifying round of the annual autumn golf tournament here on the No. 2 course.

He had a steady 41 going out and came home better for a 37 and a total of 78, which led the field by two strokes. In the first flight with him was another Pittsburgh golfer, J. B. Blackburn, of Oakmont, who had a 47-45—92. In the second division is a Pittsburgh golfer, A. F. Dysart, who had 51-48—99.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HARVEY BOYLE

Harvey Boyle.

OWEN BUSH, the Pirate manager, is a good prophet. One night in a drawing room of a train rushing west from New York to Chicago, where a baseball confab was drawing baseball figures from various sections of the country, Owen Bush met up with Bill McKechnie, whose position as manager of the Pirates, Bush had just accepted.

McKechnie had been deposed and Bush, by this, had been elevated from a minor league berth to take the Pirate post. Here was the first protracted meeting of these two men, the one having suffered loss of his job, which loss had paved the way for the other to be advanced.

WHAT was their attitude toward each other? Was McKechnie unreasonably piqued and would he show this pique against the man who was now owning his former job? What would Bush's action be toward the man he had supplanted? Would he resist the temptation to be superior? Would he show a disposition to lord it over the deposed McKechnie? These were natural questions which popped up, silently, of course, among those of who sat and listened.

HOW this kind of ice was broken, I forget now, but I remember how Bush spoke. "Baseball," he said, "is just a series of ups and downs!" He had in mind the way he had lost out at Washington, only to rise again to a big league berth. He had in mind, too, McKechnie's fall from baseball grace here. "One year a fellow imagines all the breaks go

Godfrey to Box Here

BIG GAWGE GODFREY, the Black Shadow of Lieperville, Pa., and the bogie man of the heavyweight division these days, will make his first Pittsburgh appearance in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night if Matchmaker Johnny Ray can dig up a suitable opponent for him. He is at work on Chuck Wiggins, who has boxed Godfrey before, and others of note.

Godfrey recently knocked out Jim Maloney, of Boston, in the first round at Philadelphia and Tom Sawyers, of Detroit, quit to him there last week. He has taken on all of the leading heavies who would fight him and piled up an impressive list of knockout victories.

The third meeting between Phil Goldstein and Tommy Crowley, local junior-lightweights, probably will feature the Motor Square card a week from Monday. The club is working on the match.

Marco Polo, light-heavyweight, of McKees Rocks, who gained fame last summer by acting as a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey when the latter was training for his bout with Jack Dempsey, is back in town for a visit of a couple of weeks with his brother. He may appear in bouts at McKeesport and in the Motor Square ring shortly.

Eddie Myers, of Detroit, who meets Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, in the semi-final at McKeesport Thursday night, comes highly touted. He is a 122-24-pounder. Rudy Ceder trades punches with Mike Dempsey, of Rochester, N. Y., in the 10-round windup.

Pete Zivic leaves today for Detroit, where he boxes Billy Shaw tomorrow night in one of the 10-round bouts on a card headed by Tiger Flowers and Maxie Rosenbloom. Jack McVey and Jo Simonich are in the semi-final.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Nov. 8.—Jack Dempsey, former boxing champion, was resting here today before his court contests with Jack Kearns, his former manager. In an interview, Dempsey said he advocated a national boxing commissioner comparable with Judge Landis in baseball.

Big Ten Teams Fit

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(A.P.)—Roll call at the camps of the three leaders in the Western Conference football race, Illinois, Minnesota and Michigan found no serious casualties last night, but Chicago and Northwestern of the hopeless contenders were nursing many cripples.

The Michigan team nearly earned an "iron men" reputation in Saturday's conflict with Chicago, for no substitutions were necessary until the last few minutes of play. Even Louis Gilbert, the center of the enemy attacks for four weeks, and more brittle than the average backfield star, came through unscathed and ready to encourage the Navy at Ann Arbor.

STARS GET REST.

Wisconsin and Indiana had easy opponents Saturday and came through with only an average workout. Purdue's two great runners, Wilcox and Welch, have a fortnight's rest before closing their Big Ten careers as a backfield team against Indiana.

The Northwestern cripples have the added depression of three straight defeats. In Iowa's case, though, that is only the beginning, for the Hawkeyes have 19 straight conference defeats to rally from and the greatest line in the Big Ten to crash against Saturday at Wisconsin.

Michigan, Navy Meet

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Shadows of the impending clash of Yale and Princeton, mighty elevens of the East, overcast Atlantic gridirons today.

Nowhere else in the sector is there a game next Saturday to challenge in color or historic setting the rivalry that has come down through the autumns of half a century of conflict. Saturday will mark the fifty-second meeting of a series that began when bobbed hair and military mustaches were considered a part of football equipment.

To add to attractiveness of the game, Princeton will have an eleven that has swept unbeaten and untied through opposition headed by Cornell and Ohio State. Yale, although downed by Georgia, has displayed might in crushing Army and Dartmouth. The attack of both teams, swift and sure, is built about an outstanding backfield star—the youthful Ed Wittmer, of Princeton, and Bruce Caldwell, of Yale.

IRISH INVADE EAST.

The Notre Dame eleven of Knute Rockne, robbed of a possible national title by a tie with Minnesota last Saturday, comes to New York to face an Army team that has failed to rise to the heights of last season when the South Bend fliers won a tight single-touchdown victory.

Dartmouth, which will meet an ancient rival at Cornell, failed against Yale to show the might displayed in early season contests. Pennsylvania, beaten three Saturdays in a row, stepped over Harvard Saturday to redeem a bit of lost prestige before facing Columbia.

Two of the foremost intersectional classics might draw the spotlight at other times under other conditions. Navy, beaten by Notre Dame, will journey to Ann Arbor for a match with Michigan, and Pittsburgh, tied only by Washington and Jefferson, will entertain Nebraska.

Harvard will meet Brown, a mere hollow-shell of last season's "iron men." Syracuse will resume its ancient quarrel with Colgate, the massive machine of New York University will entertain Penn State.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—The second big Eastern invasion of the Middle West heads the Western Conference gridiron program of this week, with the Navy training its guns on Michigan's great aerial combination at Ann Arbor.

The oldest traditional rivals in Conference football history, Illinois and Chicago, engage in their thirty-first annual struggle at Champaign, the fourth Big Ten struggle in a row for Illinois. Not since 1922 has Chicago triumphed over the downstate gridiron warriors, though once since that time they fought the mighty Red Grange to an historic 21-21 tie, on Stagg Field.

Michigan's smooth working passing system, Capt. Benny Oosterbaan to Louis Gilbert, and back again, has humbled every opponent encountered to date. Gilbert's absence because of an operation from the Illinois contest 10 days ago wrecked the Michigan machine, but he was as good as new against Chicago last Saturday. The success of the Michigan passing game is ample evidence, too, that the Wolverines have a line to be reckoned with, and in Rich and Miller the Wolverines have shown a pair of capable line plungers when yardage is needed to bring the enemy goal within range of Oosterbaan's tosses.

The Navy conflict will be on Michigan's new gridiron, which was dedicated three weeks ago with a 21-0 victory over Ohio State.

Nine of Coach Zuppke's Illini make their last home appearance in the Memorial Stadium against Chicago Saturday. Forty thousand tickets have been sold, and 20,000 more may be expected to watch the Big Ten leaders defend their record against Chicago.

SPORT COMMENT

in baseball circles is that he deserves it and will make good on it.

STILL another change in the National League managerial ranks takes place in Philadelphia, with Stuffy McInnis deposed in favor of Bert Shotten. That McInnis was to go had been known for some time, so that his dismissal did not come as a surprise, but Shotten's name had not been mentioned previously in the gossip going the rounds in connection with the post.

By the way, that job was offered to McKechnie a short while back, but even if he did not know what was going to happen to St. Louis Bill's judgment in turning it down is admitted by baseball men in general to have been very good. They think he would have been better off as a coach in St. Louis than as a manager in Philadelphia. Bill may be pardoned for smiling now as he considers the difference between heading a flag contender in St. Louis and piloting the tailend Phillies.

SHOTTEN has many friends hereabouts, who have followed his career since he played in the old Ohio and Pennsylvania League with Erie in 1905 and Steubenville in 1909, the days when Bert was first winning recognition as one of the fastest men in baseball history at getting down to first base.

But it is questionable whether these friends feel like congratulating him or sympathizing with him on his new appointment.

It is clear to every one that what the Philadelphia National League club needs is not a new manager but a new owner.

BUCK BAIRD, Penn State alumnus and one of the best known and most capable officials of Western Pennsylvania, was present at the Pitt-W. & J. game Saturday in the role of a spectator and praises the exhibition as one of the greatest he has ever seen.

It was about the closest approach to a perfect game of football that I have ever had the pleasure of witnessing, either as a spectator or as an official," said Buck. "By that I mean a game in which mental errors were at a minimum.

"In Saturday's game there wasn't a mistake made that I could see. In the fundamentals of the game tackling, blocking, and so on every man did his work without a slip, and the same is true of all other branches of play.

"When two teams play such errorless football as Pitt and Wash-Jeff played on Saturday it is only natural that the result should be a scoreless tie. In fact, that's just why it was scoreless. Nobody ever blundered."

FIGHT

he hoped to be able to get going better against Andrews with last night's fight under his belt following his long layoff.

NO KNOCKDOWNS IN BOUT

There were no knockdowns in the bout, with Saylor, and neither man ever was in danger. Zivic complained that Saylor was hitting low in the third round and the ultimate victor drew a warning from Referee Red Robinson. They did a lot of roughing in the early stages, but were more orthodox toward the finish, although Zivic smacked over a left hook to the jaw on the handshake before the final round.

In the second round Zivic turned Saylor around on the ropes with a left hook and Saylor took it on the run out of danger, but speedily reclaimed the lost ground. The fourth and fifth rounds were Saylor's best. He kept Zivic's head pumping back and pounded him literally about the body and in the latter session twice forced him to the ropes under punches.

In the sixth round Zivic got into the running for the first time when he caught Saylor napping for the moment and sent both fists to the head. Saylor rallied and came back with two rights which sent Zivic's head snapping back and then Zivic put steam behind his blows and nailed Saylor with a left hook to the jaw which made the Charleroian take it on the run until his head cleared.

Zivic started fast in the seventh round, but Saylor, fighting a heady battle, got back into his cautious boxing style and handily outpointed the former champion-ship contender. Thus it was until Saylor nearly played safe in the last round and permitted Zivic to outpoint him in that session. The crowd cheered the unanimous decision of the judges in Saylor's favor. Zivic weighed 143 pounds and Saylor 143½ at 3 p. m.

PRELIMS SHORT-LIVED

None of the three preliminaries went the limit, with the result that the main bout was in the ring at 9:30, and the fans went home early. Ray Shafer of Garfield, 140½ pounds, won by a technical knockout over Bull Miller of Monessen when the latter's seconds tossed in the towel after one minute 30 seconds of the fifth round after Miller had taken a count of nine under a barrage of blows and then had gone down again and rolled over. Miller took a bad beating from the start and his right eye was completely closed for several rounds before the finish. He wanted to check it when his seconds saved him. Bull was in one of his veterans horseplays, was no match for the youthful Shafer. He accidentally floored Ray with a wild right swing as the bell rang to end the second round, catching Shafer with his hands down and his body relaxed. Shafer sat down heavily and was plainly dazed by the unexpected fire power. As the third round opened, a similar swing cut Shafer's right eye and it bled badly, but his seconds checked the flow at the end of the round.

Referee Red Robinson stopped the second bout between Stanley Simmons of Lawrenceville and the South Side scrapper, Chuck Sobiak of Clairton, after one minute of the fifth round to save Sobiak who had taken a bad beating. Sobiak was in trouble in the second round, fell down and hung on in the third, took a count of nine and was saved by the bell at three in the fourth and was staggering around in the fifth when the referee intervened. Simmons weighed 132 pounds and Sobiak 131½.

Jack Bray of McKeesport, 119 pounds, stopped Sailor Meredith of the Hill, a cruiserweight scaling 119½ pounds, after one minute 20 seconds of the second round in the opening bout. The Sailor was tall and rangy, but very thin and couldn't stand the gaff after getting off to a whirlwind start. He was down three times before Referee Keally stopped the slaughter.

The judges were Michael Simon and Frank McLaughlin. The crowd was only fair in size and the club lost money on the show. Zivic received a guarantee of $1,500.

BAR HOCKEY STAR

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Clutch Gardiner, goal tender of the Winnipeg team of the American Hockey League, who was purchased by the Chicago Blackhawks together with Cecil Brown, a leading scorer for the same league, for $17,500, has been denied entrance to the United States by Washington immigration officials, the league was advised yesterday.

PITT

face to face with the prospect of a third Conference victory and certain second place for the season.

You would be surprised, you who have not seen the Dukes in action, at the way the locals handle the forward pass. Coach Elmer Layden has built a team of real class from material that was both light and inexperienced. He has installed the Notre Dame system, with a few necessary variations, but in a year or so will be able to put a team on the field that will closely resemble Rockne's elevens.

The Dukes' aerial game and its fine defense, the latter perfected by Johnny Eric Weibel, has been the most important factors in the success of the Red and Blue this season. Geneva was the only eleven in the district able to score more than seven points on the locals. The Covenanters, with a much heavier and vastly more experienced eleven, caught the Dukes early in the season and beat them 26-0, getting one of the three touchdowns in the very closing minutes of the contest when an over-anxious Duke player tackled the Geneva quarterback after he had signalled for a fair catch on a punt. The resultant penalty put the Beaver Falls team in a position to plunge over a score on the tired locals. Otherwise, the score would have been 14-0, and the victory would have been much less interesting.

At any rate, if Waynesburg can be taken into camp, it will mean that Layden and Weibel have more than accomplished their purpose this year. The task will be a tough one, for Katy Easterday has a heavy team, with several veterans in the lineup who can and do play real football. The team has twice been held to scoreless ties by teams that Duquesne has beaten, Westminster and Thiel.

McKechnie Plans To Trade Bell, Ring, Rhem

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—(U.P.)—Bill McKechnie, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, has begun reorganization of the lineup.

Jimmy Ring and Flint Rhem, pitchers, and Lester Bell, third baseman, are "tradable material," he announced. Allan Sotheron will be retained as head coach.

McKechnie signed a contract yesterday to manage the Cards, succeeding Bob O'Farrell, catcher, manager of 1927, who was given a $5,000 salary increase and retained as first-string backstop.

COAST CLUB REFUSES BIG SUM FOR STAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Tom Turner, president of the Portland Baseball Club, announced that he had refused an offer of $35,000 for Fred Ortman, 29-year-old left-handed pitching star. The offer came from the Chicago White Sox, who last week purchased Chalmer Cissell, 29-year-old shortstop, from the Portland team for $100,000 and two players.

Turner said that Ortman would not be placed on the market until next year, although six major league clubs have bid for his services.

DEMPSEY BARRED FROM GOTHAM RING AS STOCKHOLDER

By MURRAY LEWIN
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—By becoming a stockholder to the extent of $150,000 in the Madison Square Garden Corporation, Jack Dempsey made it impossible for himself to appear in a prize ring in this state again as long as he holds the stock. Under the rules of the boxing commission, no applicant for a boxer's license is permitted to have any financial interest in any corporation promoting boxing in this state or any other place.

Unless Dempsey purchased the stock in his wife's name or some name other than his own, the boxing fathers cannot help but enforce its ruling. This would automatically bar the former champion from performing here in the new heavyweight elimination tournament.

James A. Farley, head of the commission, when quizzed yesterday as to what action, if any, the solons would take in the matter, intimated that Dempsey could not be a stockholder of the Garden or any other club and box here at the same time.

Farley added that he expected the matter to be discussed at the next meeting of the board.

WAYNESBURG TO MEET DUKES HERE FRIDAY

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—The Waynesburg College and Duquesne University football teams, two of the strongest sport rivals in the tristate section, will disregard the spirit of Armistice Day, Friday, November 11, when they renew gridiron hostilities on the Bluff gridiron in Pittsburgh.

The game is regarded with extreme importance by the coaches of both teams, Katy Easterday, of Waynesburg, and Elmer Layden, of Duquesne. Aside from the strong rivalry existing between the two institutions, the game will, also, have an important bearing on the final standing of the two teams in the Tristate Conference race.

CUB HURLERS TO LEAVE FOR COAST FEBRUARY 15

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—The Chicago Cubs' spring training schedule was moved backward another week today when Manager Joe McCarthy sent out word to his pitchers and catchers to be ready to leave for Catalina Island on February 15. This will give the battery men nearly two months of preparation for the opening games of the season and ought to eliminate. McCarthy figures, some of those lame and brittle arms which many of the Cub hurlers suffered at the start of the 1927 campaign.

The ax is being sharpened in the Cub offices, to cover a flock of last season's athletes from the Cub hopes roll, including all the high-priced candidates for third base, who either couldn't hit or couldn't field good enough to stay in the major leagues after they arrived from the smaller loops.

OHIO STATE GRIDDERS BRUISED, DISCOURAGED

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—(INS.)—Bruised and discouraged from Saturday's beating at the hands of Princeton, and with a non-conference foe on the card for this weekend, Ohio State's football warriors were resting today, with nothing in particular to practice for. The Buckeye play Denison Saturday, and a week later they go up against the undefeated Illinois aggregation. No serious injuries overtook the Buckeyes at Princeton.

Bisons to Dedicate Stadium to War Veterans

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—The stadium at Bucknell University here will be dedicated Saturday as a memorial to the alumni who served in the World War. The dedication will precede a football game between Bucknell and Washington and Jefferson universities.

Four bronze tablets at either end of the stadium bearing the names of about 700 alumni who served their country during the war will be unveiled by Dr. Emory W. Hunt, president of the university. Besides the unveiling, the dedication actives will consist of the reading of the names of 39 alumni who died in the war.

Among the notables who have been invited are Gov. John S. Fisher, Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war; Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the Navy; Gen. John J. Pershing and Attorney General Baldrige.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air corps of the United States War Department, has informed college authorities that he will have a fleet of Army airplanes fly over the stadium at the time of the dedication.

against him and then maybe inside of another year he is on top again."

"Right now," he said of McKechnie, who was by no means depressed, although plainly he was on the train to ride to a city where he might meet baseball men to solicit a position, "Bill here is not in luck, yet I have seen so many funny turns in baseball that maybe in a very short time Bill here will be back at a good job—and by that time maybe it will be my turn to get a bad break."

SO NOW McKechnie comes back to a fine position, leading again a possible pennant winner, and Bush proves to be a partial prophet at least. Bush's bad break hasn't come yet, and is not likely to come for a long time, but that he knows there is always a led pipe awaiting a baseball man was shown by his sound talk with McKechnie.

BUSH likely is fixed here for a long time to come because his employer, after having had much experience with various managers, has pronounced him the best he ever had. Of course, that doesn't mean Bush is going to be here forever, because forever is a long time. Maybe in a short year or two the glowing verdict arrived at concerning Bush may suffer alterations, as such verdicts have been known to change, but there will always be an explanation. It is always possible for a manager to be the best ever in this year—and yet something else again some time later on.

A MANAGERIAL job is a difficult post to fill. Like a general, a baseball manager must know not only the rudiments of warfare, but he must be one, too, who knows the pulse of the folk behind the line. It would do a general no good to have the bravest soldiers in the world if the populace in civil life was set against him. In the end the populace would be the final arbiter.

Whether this is fair or not is not what is important in this connection. It is important because it is true. If you want proof witness the lack of general enthusiasm over what was beyond doubt a great feat—winning of a pennant by Bush in his first year, yet because his style of winning, with reference to Cuyler, did not strike the popular fancy Bush found himself at the end of the world series a man missing the usual celebration of his ability as a manager.

I have no scientific gauge to show whether Bush is popular or unpopular, but I have an instinct that says somehow that in comparison with the acclaim handed other managers for similar feats, and feats not nearly so difficult of accomplishment, Bush got only a modicum of genuine praise.

IF BUSH missed this acclaim in his year of genuine success, one can imagine the rumbling that is bound to come when if failure comes. Of course, he is buttressed by the fact that his superior is amply satisfied with him, but baseball men not always are in control of every situation.

If fans do not think themselves potent; if sometimes they imagine they have no voice, let them be disillusioned. All over the baseball world the influence of the fans is tremendous. Sometimes only a small voice in the wilderness is heard, but if that voice has a sound message it will gather volume and speed, and soon the message spreads.

It will be remembered, too, that when McKechnie, whose rise was predicted generously by a successor, was deposed a manager of the Pirates, the fans were the first consideration, for, if memory serves, the informal announcement read that the fans demanded a change and that the fans had to be heeded.

That the managerial job is difficult is shown by the hunt magnates put on to get a competent man. Consider, for instance, the fury with which Boston sought a plot to come up with Mr. Slattery, a college coach. The field is not a rich one, by any means. In the whole field over two decades only McGraw bears the mark of a genius. Little wonder so many changes come. Little wonder that those have enjoyed any success have little trouble moving on to new jobs.

COAST LEAGUE TEAMS RENEW SPLIT SEASON BATTLE

By Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—In a brief but portentous two-hour session yesterday, directors of the Pacific Coast League sounded the refreshing notes of another battle.

Umps Honor Ban; Give Former Boss Plaque

CHICAGO, Nov. 8. — (AP.) — American League baseball umpires who have worked under Byron Bancroft Johnson, former American League president for years, sent a testimonial to their former chieftain last night, a set of resolutions embossed on a big bronze plaque.

Clarence Rowland, and Brick Owens bore the gift to Excelsior Springs, Mo., where Johnson is recuperating, and Hugh Brennan, Chicago lawyer and baseball fan, will make a brief speech in presenting it to the American League founder today.

The umpires had planned to present their present to Johnson on his scheduled retirement, November 1, but his resignation two weeks earlier complicated their plans.

Heralding more strength than was anticipated, proponents of the split season, led by Bill Lane of the Hollywood club, succeeded in getting a five to three vote in favor of their measure, Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles, Hollywood and Sacramento supporting it, while San Francisco, Oakland and the Missions interjected emphatic "Nos."

The split season measure will come up for final adoption or rejection when the magnates reconvene in San Francisco on January 16.

The provisions of the split season, as outlined by Lane and his followers, call for 16 weeks of play, to include 15 series, the season to open on April 3.

They propose to provide a cash bonus of $25,000 for the winning team or teams. In the event that one team wins both halves, it will receive the entire amount, but should the winner of the first half falter in the second half, the two winners will compete on a best basis for the cash award in a special series.

The halves would consist of 14 series over a period of 12 weeks, two split weeks to be included.

FROM the moment this remarkable new Atlantic Winter Medium goes into your crankcase, hard motor starting is ended. No need to wait for gasoline dilution to make this oil "easy starting." No need to change to light, thin oils with their poor lubricating qualities.

Atlantic Winter Medium (paraffine base) is the greatest discovery of the year in motor oil refining. It marks the conquering of hard starting in paraffine base oil—without loss of the unquestioned high lubricating and heat-resisting qualities of such oil. By an extra refining process Atlantic removes the waxes which thicken paraffine base oils when chilled.

Result: An oil that is astoundingly easy starting in coldest weather; yet virtually unvarying in "body" no matter how hot the motor may become.

Put this new Atlantic Winter Medium in your crankcase now; use it regularly—and next spring your motor will emerge from the trying days of winter with all the pep and smoothness it has now.

Jeanne Eagels in French Comedy, "Her Cardboard Lover," Exhibits Gay Lingerie and Stirs Coffee

By GEORGE SEIBEL

THERE is a dog in the last act of "Her Cardboard Lover," in which Jeanne Eagels made her appearance at the Pitt Theater last night, and this dog beats a hasty retreat as soon as he is released. Whether he had heard that the play is very naughty, and thought it advisable to make a speedy exit, is uncertain; but he really might have remained through all three acts without serious moral lesions, despite very elaborate arrays of lingerie, getting in and out of which furnishes much of the comedy in Miss Eagels' part. Besides the diaphanous draperies there is a very luxurious bed, in which Miss Eagels reposes for the better part of an act, stirring her breakfast coffee with a persistence worthy of a nobler task. And there is the usual triangle, not so much equilateral as obtuse; it is formed by a divorced husband, the liberated wife, and the man she hires to keep her former husband away. Because she is afraid she may return to that former husband—a fear justified by all the eventualities of the plot.

GEORGE SEIBEL

Such are the elements of which this French farce is compounded. Perhaps the word "French" is beside the mark, for it might be any American roadhouse, where the first act is laid, and any boudoir on Squirrel Hill where the following scenes occur. But the word "French" will serve to indicate a quality of yeastiness in the situations and dialogue, such as we are accustomed to associate with the Gallic muse. There is not a character in the play, except the bartender and the maid, who has any visible means of support or any intellectual resources. They are bony frames to hang clothes upon. Miss Eagels plays the role of a doll with the brains of a butterfly. She can blink her eyes adorably, she can twist her voice as if it were a saxophone, but when she attempts to think she faints dead away and has to be put to bed. That is where she belongs; but if Simone had the least bit less mentality she would probably roll out.

From all this it will be apparent that "Her Cardboard Lover" is made of cardboard. It is very flimsy cardboard at that. Yet the farce is decidedly amusing, and not too naughty by our present-day standards. It affords Miss Eagels an opportunity to be flirtatious, inconsequential, inconsistent, silly, cunning, stupid, tempestuous and affable—to exhibit many moods and many negligees. Anthony Bushell as the lover and Barry O'Neill as the quondam husband are the only other people in the cast with anything important to do, and they did it well. But, ah, there's the dog—an animal that evidently has a soul, and was afraid to be caught in compromising company. Some canine interpreter should reassure the little beast that the play is all right—it's not nearly as wicked as it might be, even though it is called "French"—and the pup's rapid exit was an unnecessary exhibition of prudishness.

MUSICAL COMEDY IN NIXON

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

"The Girl From Childs," a comedy with music, presenting a rather novel variation of the Cinderella theme, but not sufficiently divergent to make little Ella of the ashes wholly unrecognizable, proved mildly funny from a comedy standpoint and quite pleasing in a musical way in the Nixon last night. The central character is Mary, a waitress in a restaurant, who is projected into high society circles when one of the patrons of the restaurant proposes marriage to her and is accepted after brief acquaintance. Henry Wood is the lad who marries the girl and sends her to his home on the night when there is a grand affair to celebrate the engagement of his former fiancee to Lord Dorchester. Henry is what the society novelists call a cad and his marriage is just a plan to get even with his folks.

Mary finds herself in a camp half hostile and half friendly when she arrives for the big party, with her mama-in-law and Henry's ex-fiancee being cold to her, to put it mildly, but Henry's brother, Stanley, his father and Lord Dorchester seem to think the girl is not to blame and is entitled to some sympathy. As for herself, she doesn't care, for she is a pert miss with a lot of self assurance. So, wholly unmindful of the attitude of her female in-laws, she is ready to "put on the feed-bag," as she expresses it, when the time arrives for dinner, and is wholly determined that if there is any divorce she will be the little lady who will get it instead of Henry.

But, of course, romance has to have its fling, so, even if it doesn't get going good before the second act, and Brother Stanley makes up for the shortcomings of his brother in that respect.

Ann Milburn is Mary, the waitress, with a charming little Irish brogue and a pleasing singing voice. Irving Fisher is Stanley and he also sings well. Gerald Oliver Smith gives the Lord Donchester part the standard stage silly-ass characterization and William M. Greene is a standard stage reporter.

Among the pleasing song effects were "Little Miss Nobody," by Miss Milburn and waitresses, and "Only a Paper Rose," by Miss Milburn and Mr. Fisher, also "You're a Perfect Little Lady," by the same two. There also were dance specialties by steppers not named in the program.

Dance Act Heads Program In Sheridan

In the Sheridan Square yesterday Mildred Carewe and Girls were featured in dances sponsored by Adelaide Hughes. East Liberty theatergoers appeared to enjoy the offering, which was elaborately arranged. "The Poor Nut" was the screen presentation, with Jack Mulhall and Charlie Murray co-starring. Page and Cortez appeared in "A Night in Spain." Harry and Frances Usher, in "Fifty Years from Now," were a comedy feature with a mind reading burlesque. Covington and Kent, in a dancing act, the LaSalle-Hassan Trio in "Bugs," John Edward Mitchell, at the organ, comedy on the screen and other features completed the bill.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

Movie Crocodile Leads Players Merry Chase

Lloyd Hamilton and his company engaged in a wild crocodile hunt on the Los Angeles River during the filming of the star's latest comedy, "Papa's Boy." This appears to be a nature-faking story to those Californians who know the Los Angeles River, for usually the river bed is as dry as the Mojave desert and there never was a wild crocodile in it. But on account of the heavy rainfall last spring, some water still remains in the river bed. The crocodile was one used in the comedy. It escaped during the making of the picture, swam down the river until it became too shallow and then was stranded on a sand bar, where the capture was made.

William Farnum Returns to Pictures

William Farnum, one of the most picturesque and colorful figures in motion pictures, who deserted the screen at the height of his popularity four years ago, is returning to pictures. He has been signed to appear in a forthcoming Fox feature, "Hangman's House," by Donn Byrne.

Farnum will play the role of "The Citizen," an outstanding character of Byrne's story. The production will be directed by John Ford, with June Collyer as the feminine lead, Charles Morton as the boy and Earle Foxe in the heavy role.

WOMAN, 65, TO GET DIVORCE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Emma J. Nixon, 65, will be awarded a divorce from Andrew J. Nixon, also 65, wealthy Steubenville landowner, on grounds of gross neglect, Judge Ewing indicated after hearing testimony in the case yesterday. A formal decision was reserved pending a property settlement. Mrs. Nixon lives here with her children.

FLORENCE VIDOR STAR ON OLYMPIC SCREEN

Florence Vidor is the star of "One Woman to Another," current photoplay in the Olympic. This story concerns a pair of lovers, whose marriage plans are delayed. In the meantime, the man becomes interested in a blonde. However, the heroine, like the Northwest Mounted Police, is bound to get her man. And does. The Vitaphone program offers an overture by the Vitaphone Symphony Orchestra, singing by Frances Williams of the musical comedy stage and entertainment by Eddie Conrad, comedian. News pictures are on the bill.

CAMERAPHONE SCREEN OFFERS RAMON NOVARRO

Two feature photoplays are being offered in the Cameraphone this week. Ramon Novarro is featured in "The Road to Romance," a picturization of the Joseph Conrad story of the same name, and John Gilbert is seen in a re-issue of his earlier picture, "Cameo Kirby," depicting the adventures of a historic gambler in an atmosphere of the Old South and the Mississippi paddle-wheelers. In "The Road to Romance" Novarro is seen as a Spanish don who goes to Cuba to rescue a fair maiden from the clutches of political rogues and pirates. Short screen features complete the bill.

CAMEO SCREEN OFFERS JOHN GILBERT PICTURE

The Cameo screen this week presents "Cameo Kirby," based on a play by Booth Tarkington. Cameo Kirby, the leading character, is a gambler who goes up and down the Mississippi, on the historic old paddle-wheelers, gambling and loving. The film, a reissue, is one of John Gilbert's early efforts. He is seen as Kirby. Others in the cast are Gertrude Olmstead, Alan Hale, Jean Arthur, Richard Tucker and Eric Mayne. Another two-reel "Collegian" film, a cartoon feature, International News and music are on the bill.

Introducing Players -:- Now Appearing -:- On Our Stage

JEANNE EAGELS, who has the leading role in "Her Cardboard Lover," offering in the Pitt. IRVING FISHER and ANN MILBURN appear in the principal parts in 'The Girl from Child's,' musical comedy which opened in the Nixon. BETTY BYRON, comedienne of "My Maryland," remaining in the Alvin for a third week.

"Carmen" Grand Feature On Screen

"Carmen," the screen title of which is "The Loves of Carmen," was presented as the screen feature in the Grand yesterday. Making due allowance for the artificiality of the story, long a property of the dramatic and operatic stage, the picture is a good one. Dolores Del Rio plays the fiery little Carmencita who lures Jose, a guardsman, to his destruction—her own coming through him when she takes up with Escamillo, the great toreador. The latter is played by Victor McLaglen in a comedy key which seems unreal, according to our understanding of what an exalted personage a bull fighter is in Spain. The thrilling fights between males in some pictures has a counterpart, with feminine combatants, in "The Loves of Carmen," Carmencita and another cigar roller all but disrobing one another in a hair-pulling encounter. The bull fight is adroitly introduced and other Spanish atmosphere is well presented. On the stage the Rosemont Troubadours present "A Night in the Patio," with music and dancing. A comedy, news pictures and orchestral music complete the program.

GAYETY OFFERS "BARE FACTS"

"Bare Facts" is the title of the Columbia burlesque presented in the Gayety three times yesterday, opening with a Sunday midnight show. Lena Daley is the blonde star of this frolic, which is on the review order, appearing in comedy skits and song and dance numbers. "Bare Facts" is more pretentious than many productions of its type and moves with speed through about 20 scenes, distributed through two acts. The finale of the first is quite striking, presenting the girls of the chorus as birds to provide atmosphere for a song, "Fine Feathers," sung by Tessie Sherman and Ollie Nelson. A feature of the second act is "Java," sung by Princess Wantura, dramatized with action of the purchase of a slave girl who has fallen in love with a sailor. Throughout the piece are comedy scenes and various specialties in song, dance and instrumental music. Bluey Morey, Joe Yule, Frank McConville, and Jack Gray, the latter in blackface, are principals in comedy scenes. Jean Lewis is among the women who have "speaking" parts.

DARING DANCERS IN DAVIS

A bit of real Parisian spice punctuates this week's bill at the Davis, when Mitty and Tillo come on for their dances. Not only the dances are daring, but also the costume, what there is of it. If the act were not so perfect and poetic in execution, it would be vicious and vulgar. The second dance, in which Mlle. Mitty embodies the fumes of absinthe, with a wig of wavy green, is especially fine by its marvelous mimicry, its agile abandon, its serpentine grace. If this act is likely to bring gasps from some spectators, the memory feats of Peggy MacKechnie restore the moral balance—the little girl displays an uncanny power of remembering numbers and cards. Carl McCullough has good stories and telling song patter, while Lew Reed and Paul Levere show true musical feeling and comic spirit. Harry Levan, seconded by Lottie Bolles, gets much fun out of his red hair and simulated indignation. Then there are Winnie and Dollie, in aerial flights, and the Jansleys, experts in Risley. "The Poor Nut" is the screen feature, and proves very exhilarating through the antics of Jack Mulhall as the college innocent. "The Plumber's Daughter" is the film comic, with more than the usual amount of rough-and-tumble. But the outstanding thing of the entire program is that Parisian danseuse, who seems to have stepped out of some poem of Verlaine's or some fantasia of Pierre Louys.

MINSTREL ACT IN HARRIS

An echo of the old minstrel days is heard this week in the Harris, where the Dan Fitch Minstrels top the vaudeville bill. This organization offers a mixture of popular melodies of the past and syncopating songs of the present. And, as in all minstrels, there are two blackface end men, who "crack wise." Dan Fitch and Frank Quinn, two survivors of the old minstrel school, are with the company of 20 that presents the act. A feature is the Minstrel Band. Another act on the bill is a dance presentation by the Jordon Brothers. The boys are clever and work hard. The Florida Ramblers, an orchestra, offers a number of specialty numbers, including one by the feminine performer, Hollie Moret. A quartet of comedians and singers, billed "The Harmony Aces," is another attraction. The photoplay feature is "No Man's Law," a picture that involves a horse, a heroine and two villains. Barbara Kent has the role of a miner's daughter. She and her foster-father, an old prospector, are saved from the clutches of a great big bad man by Rex, horsedom's screen star. News pictures, a fable and an organlogue are among other attractions.

Waner Brothers Make Hit In Penn

Sally O'Neil and Owen Moore, on the screen in "Becky," and the Waner Brothers and Ted Weems with his orchestra, on the stage, were the pleasing features of the bill presented in the Penn yesterday. The Waner boys, Brother Paul and Brother Lloyd, must have thought they were in a world series again, so great was the crowd that greeted them. They really pleased with their jokes, playing of violin and saxophone and a song parody on "A Dew-Dew-Dewy Day" with a baseball atmosphere. Beginning their act with a caution—"remember, we're ball players," their human little shit proved to be okay. In "Becky" Miss O'Neil was seen as a little shop girl with grand opera ambitions, which were not realized, but she found happiness just the same. In the cast with the principals were Gertrude Olmstead and Harry Crooker. Ted Weems and his boys presented many novel numbers with individual specialties. The orchestra played an overture with an atmospheric stage setting symbolizing Armistice Day, which also was the subject of some of the M-G-M news pictures and Dick Liebert's organlogue.

Tarantula Rides Airplane to Stardom

One of the strangest movie actors to visit Los Angeles in many moons, none other than a huge, hairy legged tarantula, arrived yesterday, via airplane, from Tucson, Ariz. The spidery native of Arizona was recruited from his desert haunts to play an important role in "Woman Wise," a picture now being filmed at the Fox studios.

Because all local tarantulas began their winter hibernation several weeks ago, it was necessary to import one from Arizona. A hurry call for a large, active specimen was telegraphed to Tucson. In less than an hour one was caught and boxed for shipment.

Frank Clark, Los Angeles aviator, who happened to be leaving Tucson for Los Angeles, consented to deliver the giant insect to the studios.

Albert Ray, director of the picture, being unfamiliar with the habits of tarantulas, relegated the task of directing Mr. Tarantula to Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian swimmer, who claims to be more or less of an authority on the subject of tarantulas. June Collyer, featured player in "Woman Wise," feels perfectly safe with the giant spider as long as Duke is on the job, but declines to work alone with the insect actor.

KRAMER, BOYLE IN ALDINE

Hey, hey, collegiate! There's quite a bit of this type of atmosphere in Loew's Aldine this week. For one thing there is the Harvard Collegians, a musical aggregation featuring one Mr. Cook of Boston. This lad, tall and slim, sings, dances and "twists" himself into plenty of applause. Kramer and Fields trot out more collegiate stuff in their act. Another Kramer is on the bill also—Dave to his front-name. Well, Dave and his partner, Jack Boyle, are the big feature of the show. Dave, with his black face, hands out the comedy, while Jack gets a big "hand" by singing about "me and my shadow" and about some fellow whose girl was stolen by his pal. This team also helps the Harvard boys along in their act. Fein and Tennyson appear in a novelty song presentation and the Donal Sisters, athletes, stand on top of one another and that sort of thing. Mae Murray is seen on the screen in "Altars of Desire," a picture that concerns a girl who has what she doesn't want and wants what she hasn't got. News pictures and an overture by the orchestra are on the bill.

"MY MARYLAND" OPENS THIRD WEEK IN ALVIN

The captivating operetta, "My Maryland," last night opened its third week in the Alvin. This production, which is being received with enthusiasm by Pittsburgh, is entirely American in music and theme. Lottice Howell, who originated the principal role—that of Barbara Fritchie—heads the cast here. The singing of a large male chorus is a feature.

"Nifties" Show Is Academy Burlesque

"Naughty Nifties," a Mutual burlesque embodying a variety of features, is this week's show in the Academy. Costumes, particularly those worn by the girls in a fashion parade, include a number of striking designs. George "Buttons" Pares is the principal comic and he is aided in the fun-making by Johnny Gilmore, Doug Fleming and George Keystone, Buster Sanborn, a young woman, appears to her specialties. Helen Morgan and Dot Lee are prominent in the vocal department. Blondetta appears in Oriental features, which are presented with special scenic effects.

Forbes

Will Cost of Living Fall? Forbes Analyzes Prices.

By B. C. FORBES

HOW are commodity prices likely to move?

In this column the same question was asked in July, and the answer started off thus: "My reading is that the agricultural prices are headed upward, but that the mildly downward trend in non-agricultural prices will continue. Becoming still more venturesome, my guess is that stock market quotations will seek lower levels before very long."

That is exactly what has happened since.

My guess now is that agricultural prices will maintain most of their advance, that prices for manufactured products will continue to sag slightly and that stocks which have been speculatively prominent will fluctuate erratically, with a downward trend—although other sections of the stock market, including oils and utilities, should do better.

TODAY the commodity price level is at the peak of the year, thanks mainly to the rise in textiles, hides and leather, live stock and fruits.

Both Dun's and Bradstreet's report a rise last month of less than 1 per cent.

But as compared with the beginning of November last year, Bradstreet's shows an advance of fully 4 per cent, while Dun's puts the gain at 2 per cent.

HOW different classes of commodities moved last month and how they compare with November 1 a year ago is shown in this summary of Bradstreet's statistics:

PRICE COMPARISONS

Commodity.	Month Ago.	Year Ago.
All combined	145	144	138
Breadstuffs	136	136	131
Live stock	129	119	112
Provisions	154	153	155
Fruits	131	131	119
Hides, leathers	135	133	108
Textiles	142	140	122
Metals	121	121	109
Coal, coke	167	167	185
Oils	138	139	144
Naval stores	196	204	201
Building materials	141	141	154
Chemicals, drugs	158	158	146
Miscellaneous	165	159	194

LAST week tire prices were cut 5 per cent, iron sagged to the lowest point in almost a dozen years, certain steel prices weakened, the trend in textiles was downward. The widespread expectance is that the arrival of the new Ford car will bring price-cutting by other makers of low-priced cars.

Many of our largest corporations in various lines of industry are making distinct progress in lowering costs of production, and the rule now is for such economies to be shared with consumers by naming lower prices. The existence of facilities for greater production than can be absorbed is another factor making for a downward trend in prices for manufacturers.

OF course, any pronounced quickening in the general business pace would have an effect upon prices in many directions. Admittedly, profit-margins in many lines are narrow. Steel manufacturers, for instance, complain that the return on the capital invested in that industry has been unreasonably low for some time. Copper prices have also been kept down by the failure of consumption to equal the productive capacity.

But few authorities predict any marked expansion in business in the immediate future, although some figure that the improvement in agricultural conditions should by and by have a beneficial effect upon trade.

TWO major factors are unlikely to influence the price trend appreciably one way or the other, namely, money rates and wages. There may possibly develop slightly firmer rates for money in view of the enrmous output of new securities and the moderate outflow of gold from this country. But any drastic change is most improbable. The wage level may be kept from rising further by the presence of more or less unemployment at a good many places and by a downward rather than an upward trend in the general price level, including rents.

Moreover, tax reduction should gradually make possible the lowering of the cost of living in some slight degree. Outside of the stock market, the general price outlook is reasonably satisfactory.

BANKER DRAWS 2 TO 30-YR. TERM

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Judge Warren Cowen, in Common Pleas Court, yesterday, overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of W. E. Thomas, cashier of the Bridgeport Bank Company, who was last week convicted of making false reports to the State Banking Department, and sentenced him to 2 to 30 years in the penitentiary at hard labor. The usual custom of sending sentenced persons to prison in five days was suspended by court order as Thomas is to be tried November 25 for embezzling bank funds, 21 indictments still remaining against him.

JAMES, WILLIAM AND LOWERY GUFFEY

Triplets, this trio, and they're graduate students at Pitt. The Guffey's—they live at 2717 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport—registered at the Oakland university four years ago as freshmen, changed their respective minds and switched to University of Michigan, where they completed their undergraduate work and returned to Pitt to learn what's what in the post-graduate business. Jim and Bill are law students and Lowery, as a medical student, hopes to succeed his father and his brother.

9 MORE TO FACE M'GOVERN PROBE

Determined to force every member of the Taxpayers' Committee of Allegheny County—which is sponsoring newspaper advertisements purporting to give "facts" on the county's financial condition—to appear before him for a "quizzing," County Controller Charles C. McGovern late yesterday issued subpenas on nine members of the committee who have failed to appear at the Controller's public inquiry to tell what they know about county business.

Last week subpenas were issued for all 17 members. Since then one member, Attorney Joseph Stadtfeld, has withdrawn and seven of the members have appeared before the Controller. Attorney Henry O. Evans, counsel for the committee, during a heated argument with the Controller yesterday, said the nine members who had not appeared had not been subpenaed and would not testify until officially notified by the sheriff's office. "And when they do come before you," Attorney Evans said, "they will tell you that you have no jurisdiction to question them."

Those who Attorney Evans maintains were not notified to appear and for whom subpenas were issued yesterday are A. C. Lehman, R. V. Bingay, J. Dawson Callery, Mrs. Edith Oliver Ren, John M. Phillips, Charles Miller, J. H. Hershberger, P. J. McGrath and E. R. Crawford. The writs ordered them to appear before the Controller when the probe is resumed Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Things moved quickly during a brief session of the probe yesterday. After the elusive and mysterious "Mr. Nat Brown" had been identified as Charles R. Haley, North Side, by County Treasurer Samuel D. Foster, and presented to the Controller for questioning, Controller McGovern adjourned the probe to sign three informations against Deputy County Controller James L. Costella, charging embezzlement, cheating by false pretense and falsifying the county records. The informations were made before Alderman A. M. Moloney. Later in the day, Mr. Costella surrendered himself and was released on $1,500 bond to appear for a hearing November 14.

Haley was put through a stiff quizzing, but his memory was hazy and he could not remember certain things which the Controller charged were important matters. It developed at the hearing that Haley was personally employed by Foster as a confidential investigator to "gum-shoe" on prospective employes in the Treasurer's office.

Haley, although he testified that he investigated between 75 and 100 men, said he could not remember one name of the persons he "Sherlocked" on, or an address.

"I don't believe a word you are saying," the Controller retorted as Haley was excused.

Following the hearing yesterday, Controller McGovern immediately went home, suffering from a severe cold. "I am going through with this probe if it takes me until I go out of office," he said. "I am sick and am going home."

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—With reports of bank trail weaker in Argentina but become favorable, wheat averaged lower in price today during the early dealings. Fresh conformation was lacking that either rust or frost in Argentina had done important damage. Opening unchanged to ¼c off wheat later underwent a sag all around. Corn was strong, starting ¼ to ¾c higher, and continuing to point upward. This went from fractional losing grain grade.

Wheat traders appeared to be inclined to give considerable attention today to advices that Argentine crop prospects are good, although as yet no estimates issued for the season is by no means assured. The bears in one of the market was given some ammunition by word that Liverpool stocks of wheat this week showed 1,600,000 bushels, against 1,000,000 bushels last week, and 10,000,000 bushels a year ago. News of better weather in Argentina was somewhat offset by wintering conditions likely to delay the movement of wheat in territory both north and south of the Canadian line.

Unsettled conditions in the corn belt gave a pronounced strength at times today to the corn market. No selling pressure was in evidence until May advanced to above 92 cents. Receipts here were small, only 80 cars arriving in Chicago today.

TWO CONTESTS FACE WASHINGTON, PA., VOTERS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 8.—The only spice in today's election is found in the contest for mayor of Washington between Mayor W. W. Hunt, Democrat, seeking re-election, and R. H. W. S. Brotzman, United States weather forecaster, one of many Pittsburghers who have been convinced that it is practical as well as desirable to simplify the calendar, pointed out, in an interview today, some of the advantages to be derived from the change, and at the same time answered objections that have been raised to it.

The arrangement most generally advocated is the division of the year into 13 months of four weeks each, with the three hundred and sixty-fifth day to be New Year's Day, a zero day called January 0, and universally observed as a holiday. The extra day in leap year, according to the plan, would be a similar holiday inserted as July 0 and established at that time to gain more favorable weather for holiday recreation than is possible on February 29. The new month would come between June and July and be called "Sol" because it would contain the solstice day in both the northern and southern hemisphere.

"I am in favor of the reform," said Mr. Brotzman, "and I believe it would cause less confusion than some persons suppose. Of course it would be strange at first; there might be some embarrassment in arranging birthday celebrations. But people would soon get accustomed to the new system just as they got accustomed to standard time and daylight saving time.

"Up until 50 or 60 years ago every city had its own time system based on the movements of the sun. There was no uniformity, no regularity; with the result that businessmen were constantly subject to error and annoyance in matters depending on the computation of time in various parts of the country. Notwithstanding that the system was a well-nigh intolerable nuisance many persons were unwilling to change it because of the confusion they said standard time would produce.

"I believe the history of the change in the clocks would be repeated in the reform of the calendar—that people would soon become used to it, and then would wonder why they tolerated so long the cumbersome and awkward system that we now have, with some months arbitrarily given 31 days, others 30, and one 28.

"There was an interesting discussion of calendar reform at a meeting of the American Meteorological Association several years ago. Dr. Moses B. Cotsworth, one of the first men publicly to propose a change in the form now generally recognized as most desirable, came before the society and pointed out in a striking way some of the disadvantages of the present arrangement of months.

"Do you realize that February is one-thirteenth of the year, and not one-twelfth, as we generally think of it?

"Do you realize that months that differ in length from 28 to 31 days have a difference of 11 per cent?

"Do you realize that the churches will get 3 per cent more money in their collection plates next year than this year because there will be 53 Sundays next year, as against 52 this year?

"The extra Saturday this year will be favorable to railroad earnings, the extra Sunday next year will be unfavorable. And so it goes in many kinds of business.

"If business is poor in February, but it seems to have improved wonderfully in March, it would be well to analyze your accounts closely, as March has 14 per cent more earning time than February.

"With the 13-month year each day of the month would fall on the same week-day month after month and year after year. Dr. Cotsworth pointed out at the meeting of the meteorological association that with the new 28-day month money spent for salaries, rents and monthly accounts would circulate 9 per cent faster than under the present system.

"After Dr. Cotsworth had finished H. H. Layton—well known for his study of solar radiation in its relationship to the weather—objected to a 13-month year on the ground that it would not be easily divisible into quarters and halves. Dr. Cotsworth replied that the quarters would end one, two or three weeks after the beginning of a month, and that this would be beneficial because it would make it possible to compile quarterly reports at a time when there was relief from the pressure of the monthly statements.

"Many of the other objections can be just as readily answered."

The Musicians' Club of Pittsburgh gave us another opportunity last night to hear works of a local composer when it arranged the concert for T. Carl Whitmer. Pittsburghers cry for recognition of our own musicians; here they might have shown their spirit, yet Carnegie Music Hall showed many vacant places.

With the assistance of good soloists and the Chamber of Commerce Chorus, Mr. Whitmer's compositions had a very fair showing. He has experimented with every form, excerpts from his music dramas being transposed for the organ for last night's performance. Some years ago we heard this same composer's Chinese music, which, though formless, left us marvellous sound impressions. Since then Mr. Whitmer seems to have departed from his idiom of that period, and judging from the present programs he has not yet found a new idiom. In all his music I hear interesting harmonic effects, but I feel that each composition is an experiment, that he is groping for the expression of an idea, and while he may find a fragmentary motif, he can not unite these fragments into an artistic unit. For that reason I find his incidental music to George Sebel's sonnets as successful music as Mr. Whitmer has made. When he writes for chorus he has more mercy than in songs for solo voices, when his innatural intervals are not only unmusical, but may wreck voices. It will be interesting to hear more of Mr. Whitmer's work in a few years when he has more clearly defined the spirit we began to sense last night.

'FRAMED', SAYS FRISBY; FIND SNAPPY PICTURE IN REFORMER'S TRUNK

This is the damaging calendar discovered in Frisby's trunk. Reformer says it was placed there by enemies.

BY MR. FRISBY
Our staff correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"I will fight for my honor!"

This was the deft hurled in the face of adversity today by your correspondent, following the so-called expose in the Congressional Record.

"Everyone knows," says Frisby, "that I have made a determined fight against snappy calendars distributed by bullets throughout the land.

"I have been untiring in my efforts to snatch them wherever I could. And now my enemies have planted one of these shocking pictures in my trunk in a feeble effort to discredit me before the people, and defeat the nation-wide Frisby-for-Vice-President movement.

"But it will avail them nothing, let the chips fall where they may."

The disgraceful picture, reproduced above, shows a Camp-fire Girl, apparently flipping her skirts at someone, and revealing a shocking display of er . . . what shall I say? . . . calf? No, I will speak out and call a spade a spade. She is showing her leg, I am told. Personally, I have not looked at the picture, which is, in my opinion, an insult to every rightminded taxpayer. If this be treason, make the most of it.

BUGS BAER Says

WHEN Pocahontas stopped her old man from bobbing John Smith's vertebra she certainly made the phone book heavy.

There are now a million Smiths subscribing to the daily weather reports. What's going to happen if every one votes for Al?

That's a million to start with provided that the big family celebrates a reunion at the polls.

When these multitudinous musketeers paraphrase that old war cry, "one for al and al for one," it's going to make the Republicans be nice to the Joneses.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

The Browns should also get plenty of promises from the G. O. P. for these families are powerful enough to make their own laws and elect their own Presidents.

If Alabama ever changes its mind about Underwood that will make 24 more votes in the Smith bag.

With a Smith in the White House, eight in the cabinet and a majority in Congress, it seems to look as if the Republicans will have to get out of politics or marry into the family.

The Smiths argue that it's time for one of them to be leading the band. There was a Smith on the Mayflower, there was a Smith at Valley Forge, there were Smiths shooting at each other at Bull Run and when you are looking for the birds who won the World War don't overlook the Joneses.

Fortunately for the Republicans, all the Smiths don't hang their hats on the same rack. Otherwise, the next election would be a combination of walk-over and wash-out known as a real estate operation called a landslide.

Out of those million Smiths there will be a couple hundred thousand checking their tickets for Al, another couple hundred thousand voting against him because they don't like his name and about six hundred thousand will not commit themselves until they are sure that the Smith running isn't the brother who used to tell the old lady when they went in swimming on Sunday.

But, if Al could ever get that million together at a Smith dinner he could do himself a lot of good even if he had to pick up the lunch check with a crowbar.

ON "IT CAN'T BE DONE"

MEN and WOMEN look at
LOVE through DIFFERENT
Eyes, and RARELY
Do they TELL.
Each other
WHAT they see.
A SOPHISTICATED man
Sometimes looks
At a PRETTY girl and Feels romantic
Then he USUALLY Tells her that he LOVES her—which is NOT the case,
A WORLDLY girl sometimes
Looks at a SMART and WEALTHY man
And feels a THRILL
At his SUCCESS.
She THEN lets him
BELIEVE she has fallen
For his CHARM.
DESIRE is ONE story,
LOVE is ANOTHER.
WEALTH is ONE thing,
AFFECTION another. BUT
If men and women SAID
What they REALLY saw, and THOUGHT, there would be A REVOLUTION.

Transcontinental Highway Bill Should Be Passed

Pittsburgh residents, especially commercial and civic organizations, should follow the worthy example of C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motorists' Club, and get behind the Holaday Bill for establishing a system of Federal hard-surfaced highways. It provides, for one thing, that state capitals be linked by routes direct as is physically possible. As Mr. Roth points out in a recent statement in the Sun-Telegraph the need for good roads across the United States is very great.

Under provisions of the bill to which Mr. Roth refers no part of any highway is to be less than 18 feet in width and routes from cities of not less than 200,000 shall be hard-surfaced roads 40 feet wide for a distance of 20 miles from the city limits. Belt lines around cities to avoid delays incident to passing through currents of congested traffic also are provided for in the Holaday Bill.

Financing is to be by loan secured by government bonds. The bill provides that the government shall establish and maintain the proposed highways but assistance from the motoring public for maintenance will be required. This will be in the form of a small Federal tax on both cars and gasoline.

The advantages of such a highway system are so obvious that it seems superfluous to mention any. Great as they would be to all in economic value such advantages are outweighed by the importance such roads would be as a national defense measure. In Pittsburgh, where, during the World War, we saw long motor trains hauling military equipment almost daily, that feature may seem more impressive than it will appear in places which did not view such spectacles. Let us assure them this is a factor of inestimable weight.

Viewed merely from the selfish standpoint of the individual rather than that of a far-seeing person who considers general welfare as well as his own, the Holaday Bill offers that which should receive support. For pleasure only the proposed highways would make the United States a veritable roamers' paradise.

Commercially, they would be money savers through shortening of routes. It is in that direction the man who does not own a car would be benefited in the same way as the one who drives. That is the general benefit to all. Special benefits to car owners will be paid for by them in the shape of the small tax mentioned.

This is the motor age and we realize daily that we are not properly equipped to care for its increasing problems. Various political divisions, from boroughs to states, even to the Federal Government, through its Federal aid law, have found themselves always behind in caring for the streams that daily flow into traffic arteries and become more dense with each passing day. Strive as they may, the lesser units of government never can keep up with the mounting flood. Hence, it is time that the United States, itself, took up some of the burden. It is not proposed to abolish the Federal aid law but to supplement and support it.

Whether you are a motorist or not, a business man or not, it is to your interest to get behind the Holaday Bill and push. You have a telephone. You have it cheaply because for one thing, a motor truck, in perhaps an hour, hauled more telephone poles a longer distance than a four-horse team could in a day. This example applies to everything in everyday use. Better roads will be still better for all.

Cleopatra's Joke

Cleopatra knew her business. Perhaps you have forgotten the little joke she played on Antony.

It was after the Egyptian queen had engineered that stagey but effective meeting, when she sailed up the River Cydnus on her gold and purple barge, costumed after the manner of some of our shows before they're censored.

She wanted to make a hit with Antony (having stem need of the Roman consul in her political arrangements) and took him to the gay city of Alexandria, where she proceeded to be a regular fellow.

If Antony hunted, so did Cleopatra. Would he dally with the dice? Well, she could shoot crap, too. If there were two-fisted drinking to be done, she was there with both hands. Cleopatra even went fishing with the man she sought to ensnare.

Only she proved a better angler than Antony and caught all the fish, which irked his imperial (and masculine) pride. So he privately instructed his slaves to dive under water and attach fish to his hook. But then he was too good, and Cleopatra saw through the trick.

So when they fished again next day one of the Queen's servants was first at Antony's hook—and the general pulled in a fine lt fish.

Quite a standard move in the feminine chess-game as sometimes played, you'll observe—making a man look a little ridiculous. Cleopatra knew that move and all the rest, because she was just about the most shining example of the unscrupulous type of woman that ever lived.

She had brains and used them, did Cleopatra. But for the purpose of furthering an unprincipled ambition.

How her arts and wiles finally failed her read in Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," that gorgeous, tragic tale of a charmer who wrought a structure of glittering power out of crime and wantonness, to have it fall and crush her in the end.

It usually works the same way still. Watch.

Uncle Sam's Good Example

A challenging announcement has just been made by the Department of Justice.

In the past decade, while the population of the country has been increasing 20 per cent, the population of Federal prisons has increased 110 per cent, or nearly six times as fast.

No, it isn't bootlegging which is chiefly accountable. It is "dope."

Ten years ago the number of persons in Federal prisons for violations of the law against narcotic drugs was 299. Today it is 2,116. One of every nine Federal convicts is serving a sentence for trying to make profit out of drug addiction.

Today the Federal law against this evil is a good law which is being effectively enforced. Were all the states to do as well, the spread of the abominable traffic in habit-forming drugs would soon be checked.

The campaign for a uniform state law and policy on this subject should be pressed with vigor.

They Win—and Lose

Seniors at Vassar are to have a nifty smoking room—cream draperies, comfortable chairs, green linolcum. There they may puff to their hearts' content.

Should students in girls' colleges smoke? Only yesterday the battle raged. So the Vassar smoking room is by way of being a monument to another feminine victory. Again the fair sex demonstrates its right to do as it pleases by knocking an aged prejudice for a row of ash trays.

But mark, ladies, another item in the papers, hard by the Vassar piece. A Jersey City judge rules that a girl must return to her former sweetheart his gift of three diamond rings, or the cold equivalent of $1,800. In the good old days what judge would have been so lacking in chivalry; and what ex-suitor would have had the nerve to sue his presents back?

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Ramming Relativity

PROFESSOR H. BOUASSE, of Toulouse, is one of the foremost physicists of France and author of many textbooks of high standing. It is well known that he does not accept the Einstein relativity theory and he has recently emphasized his non-acceptance of it in a book on the "Propagation of Light," using words characteristic of his warm southern temperament. He reiterates what I have several times pointed out in these articles, viz., that some of the Einsteinians have lost themselves open to the charge of concealing, or inexcusably ignoring, important experiments that flatly contradict the fundamental assumption of their master's theory, but the weight of which experiments he himself has frankly admitted.

It must be interesting to everybody who has noticed the propaganda of the Relativists during the past ten years to read what Professor Bouasse has to say on the subject:

"Our good Relativists have the habit of causing certain experiments to file before us like the figurants in the theater, who march past fourteen times in succession in order to give the appearance of an army. But they take good pains not to speak of that experiment at Mount Wilson, which proves the absurdity of their papotage" (vain talk). "While they enumerate all the experiments, identical in substance, which prop their ridiculous hallucinations, they suppress the one that demolishes them. And that is called truth-telling!" (Et cela croit avoir une conscience!) "At least these messieurs, before lifting the ferrule to give us a lesson, should first take pains to comprehend the detail of all the preceding experiments. Then we should be disembarrassed for a time from their bourdonnement de mouche de coche" (big noise about nothing).

The Mt. Wilson experiment that Professor Bouasse mentions is that of Professor Dayton C. Miller, in which he demonstrated, by thousands of repetitions, that the Einsteinian assumption that to an observer on the moving earth the measured velocity of light must be constant regardless of the direction or amount of the earth's motion, is erroneous. Moreover he showed that the famous "Michelson-Morley experiment" had not really given a decisive indication of the kind ascribed to it by the Relativists. Just as in their treatment of the alleged proof of Relativity by the deviation of star rays passing the sun, they had picked and chosen among the variant results those that suited their theory.

As I have already said, Einstein himself, when Professor Miller's results were first reported, loyally declared that if they were confirmed his theory would have to be revised. Professor Miller's results were confirmed most convincingly, and yet even late texts relating to the Einstein theory continue to repeat the exploded declaration that the Michelson-Morley experiment thoroughly confirmed Einstein's assumption about the velocity of light. Professor Bouasse is quite right in becoming indignant over such proceedings in the name of science.

An American astronomer, Professor J. G. Porter, has lately publicly protested against the inclusion in recent textbooks of astronomy of "Relativity" as generally accepted and incontrovertible addition to verified scientific theory. The controversy has become centered mostly in disputes about the interpretation of observations and the true meaning of experiments, and Newton's flag is still untorn by the winds.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Are You a Leader?

AT TIMES you are sore and sour because you see others in positions you cannot hope to reach.

You think your family connections and your ability equal to theirs and you see in the scheme of things a condition you think unjust.

It hurts you because the one who is your superior in your place of employment seems to look upon you as inferior mentally and in general preparation.

Perhaps he is superior to you and that is why he holds his position.

There is a certain something about that man in high position or the boss would not keep him in the place you think you should have.

Perhaps your ability does not include leading and directing.

Your judgment might be warped in favor of the workers in preference to your employer's interests.

Naturally the firm wants a real representative in highest office.

To be a good leader one must be loyal and true to the man who is employer.

Tales that are Told

Far Too Polite

POOR old George Grinstead had tried his hand at all kinds of different jobs, but little success had come to him.

At last he tried the railway, but even they turned him down, and George came out from the examination room and told his pals that he was color blind.

"But you ain't," insisted a staunch ally. "No more'n I am!"

"It's just because I was too polite," said George.

They all looked puzzled.

"Well," explained the rejected one, "a man held up something for me to look at. 'Come,' 'e says, 'this is green, isn't it? You're sure it's green?'—quite pleadin' like. An' though I see it was red, I couldn't tell 'im so, so I says 'Yes,' and they says, 'Sorry, but we're afraid you won't do,' and bundled me out."—London Answers.

No Wonder!

HAVING read nearly all the literature in the barber's shop a weary customer turned to the man who patiently waited beside him.

"Do you think hair restorers are any use?" he asked, nodding to a colored advertisement opposite them.

"Well, they've certainly done me a deal of good," answered the other.

The first man regarded the speaker's bald pate in astonishment.

"Indeed?" he said dubiously. "The results are not too obvious."

"Ah," murmured the other, "it wasn't new hair I got, but a new house in the country. I am the manufacturer of the remedy you see advertised on that wall."

Youthful Discretion

HE WAS rather a pathetic figure. He had the soul of the real sheik, but he was afflicted with one of those faces which clash with all but the most subdued fashions and shades.

One afternoon he called at the house of a particular girl friend, and while waiting for her to appear was entertained by her 10-year-old brother.

"Well," remarked our hero, with a smile, "what do you think of me?"

The boy maintained a discreet silence.

"Aren't you going to say?"

"No," was the firmly given reply. "I was never a fighting man."

The Strange Order

AN OLD Scotswoman had just had gas installed in her house, but, unfortunately, in her first attempt to light it she managed to touch the fragile mantle with the taper and it fell in fragments to the ground.

Turning off the gas, she hastened to the local ironmongers and asked for a new mantle.

"Certainly, madam," he replied. "What kind dae ye require?"

The old lady wrinkled up her brows in thought. At last she had it.

"Gie me one o' they perverted ones," she said triumphantly.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—There have been about five New Yorkers in the past few years who, for seemingly no reason at all, vanished. They were for the most part men of respectability and independent incomes. Out of a clear sky, apparently, they succumbed to an irresistible tug of adventure.

One is living in a thatched hut in a dinky town in Africa and shooting big game. Another is prospecting in Alaska—leaving the cushioned elegance of his club to mush through eternal snows. And still another is reported in far-away Thibet.

These are men who became fed up on metropolitan monotony—the tedium of crowds, gaiety, orderly and mechanical existence and that insufferable grind of doing prescribed things at the prescribed time. New York offers more appalling regularities than any other city. Yet it is supposed to be the most irregular.

This is due to its compactness. Almost any New Yorker knows a half dozen men and women who do the same things at the same hour every day in the year. They see the same people, visit the same resorts, discuss the same topics. It is the life of the revolving squirrel in the cage.

And it is strange more do not revolt. Browning imprisoned the idea in his poem:

What's become of Waring
Since he gave us all the slip,
Chose land travel or seafaring,
Boots and chest or staff and scrip,
Rather than pace up and down
Any longer London town?

Twenty years ago there was a sedate bachelor banker of Broad street who, after a morning of rush and worry, slammed down his desk top. He left a note saying: "Nothing has happened. I've just been missing too much of life's greatest gift—romance." Eleven years later he returned to the grind, and in eight months was off again. A year ago he died in Labrador.

* * *

Yet if all submitted to longings for adventure, civilization would likely go to pot. One of the greatest dreamers of adventure I know is a Sixth avenue watch repairer who spends eight hours a day with a magnifying glass screwed in his eye, peering into the innards of broken-down watches. He has denied himself all romance to raise a family of seven, and at 60 he is still gazing into uninteresting watches. And dreaming.

* * *

Among recent metropolitan horrors are the names given to quick lunch shops. One in the Thirties is called "The Sip and Bite." I have one—"The Snatch and Run." O, very well!

* * *

New York has more hunters than most people imagine. While the city is in the throes of its first dead sleep Broadway restaurants, during the hunting seasons, are filled with those taking an early bite before starting off for various hunting grounds on Long Island and in New Jersey.

There is one New Yorker who had his first and last hunting trip a year ago. He went to Montana for deer. On a trail he fired and saw a deer turn a somersault. When he arrived near a dog was engaging it in death battle. His shot had broken a leg and the dog was at its throat, with the deer screaming, he said, like a frightened baby. There was nothing to do but end the agony, which he did with another bullet. He said the pathetic pleading look the wounded deer gave him in death resulted in a nervous breakdown which kept him in a sanitarium for several weeks.

One of the oldest fight fans in New York is Mrs. Harry Hill, widow of the proprietor of New York's most famous dance hall, which flourished in the 70's. Mrs. Hill, now past 70, knew all the old fighters, and once held stakes for John L. Sullivan. She calls present day matches "kissing bouts."

The Most Interesting Thing

By DR. FRANK CRANE

You may not believe it, but the stubborn fact is that the most interesting thing in the world is a fight of some kind.

The enormous crowds recently gathered in Chicago to witness the fight between Tunney and Dempsey and the enormous amount of money involved in that event, millions of dollars, shows that the most primitive form of personal contest still is at the front of all interesting things.

What the contest is about makes no difference. Nothing is to be settled. Nobody cares one way or another over the issues. They just want to see the fight.

Neither Tunney nor Dempsey is anybody in particular except rather prepossessing young men and men in the pink of physical perfection. They have no dispute to settle and no issue is involved.

Somehow the old question as to who is the best man is a perennial one. The school boy illustrates it when he walks up to another fellow and says: "I can lick you."

His licking is about nothing and settles nothing. But the licking business remains interesting.

The main thing for humanity to do is to transfer its desire for contest from a fight between men to a fight over the enemies of mankind.

Recently Von Hindenburg denied the fact that Germany was responsible for the war, although most of the allied people think she was. Mr. Briand stated, very properly, that the question had better be let alone.

Probably the thing responsible for the war is that everybody had a lot of gunpowder stored up and a lot of men ready to fight and they wanted to see a scrap for their money.

Fundamentally the thing that brought on the great war was the same thing that brought on the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

Perhaps in time some other thing than the question who is the best man will come to the front, but so far in the world's history that remains the most interesting question.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Winter

CHILL rains now drench the earth and bleak winds blow, the wings of night still shadow morning hours, and in the garden, tossing to and fro, the dead leaves mock bright memories of flowers. No note of song drifts down the wind today, the feathered choir have winged their way afar to voice sweet madrigal and roundelay on shores where summer and the sunlight are. But ever blustering about the door the north wind seeks to find an entrance there; now loud and shrill, and now with sullen roar of baffled beast retreating to its lair. It would be sad to say a long goodby to Summer and her train as they depart; but who has fear of Winter's wind and sky as long as it is summer in the heart?

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: We Will Not Be Wasted

DR. MICHAEL PUPIN is a great scientist. He has spent his years in studying life. He does not see Life as you or I see it, in small, detached fragments existing Now. He sees Life stretching back and back to its first beginnings. He sees it as an architect sees a great building, from the first blue print through all its different stages.

He has studied queer, small fossils which were the first crude, blue prints of great animals that developed later. Tiny, rabbit-like creatures growing into fierce stallions. Frail, lacey ferns becoming trees. Gobs of slime putting on gills, scales, tails and legs. And a higher development than that of the flesh. Love, Pride, Ambition, Honesty, Imagination, Courage springing where once there were only beast fear and lust and greed. Songs being born, and Laughter and Prayer in a brute's darkened consciousness.

Looking back, Dr. Pupin sees that these things haven't Just Happened. All this evidence makes him sure that there is some plan behind it all, and some sort of a Planner. He believes that everything has a reason—that everything is Going Somewhere—that nothing is wasted.

You and I can't see that, of course. We see Life in such little segments, without a beginning or end, and everything seems hopelessly muddled. We feel hopeless, terribly discouraged.

"What's the use of living if this is all?" we cry. "What's the use of all this loving and suffering if we're going to end in a few years?"

But Dr. Pupin doesn't believe that we end in a few years. He has never yet seen anything END. He has proof that no matter has ever been destroyed. And if matter is worth perpetuating aeon after aeon—and if God fusses so endlessly over the evolutions of a pig—surely that most marvelous and complicated of all creations, THE HUMAN SPIRIT, won't be junked after a few score years of service!

"It does not seem reasonable to me," he says, "that a creation which has been going on for billions and billions of years, insofar as we can tell, for the very purpose of producing that wonderful soul, should cause the soul—YOUR SOUL AND MY SOUL—to exist only as long as our physical bodies exist. Although science does not offer mathematical proof of the immortality of the soul, it gives us plenty of food for thought and belief, plenty of grounds for intelligent hope. And, it adds to our conviction that our physical life is only a stage in the existence of the soul.

"In my opinion all scientific evidence tends to show—not to prove but to point toward the belief—THAT IT IS VERY UNLIKELY THAT THE SOUL OF MAN IS GOING TO CEASE ITS EXISTENCE WHEN THE BODY PERISHES. The law of continuity and the general scientific view of the universe tend, I think, to strengthen our belief that the human soul goes on existing and developing after death."

Think of that sometimes, partner, when you feel that your life isn't worth while.
